Daring $2,000 Burglary in the West End.

A Family Chloroformed While Sleeping, by Robbers.

RICH HAUL IN MONEY AND VALUABLES THEN MADE.

The Residence of Chas. A. Wickham, or North Taylor Avenue, Entered by Thieves Who Secreted Themselves and Waited Their Chance-Two Thousand Dollars Taken From a Vest Pocket-A Footprint in the Dust the Only Clue.

Last night the residence of Charles A. Wick ham, proprietor of the Grand Restaurant, 814 St. Charles street, the residence being lo cated on the northwest corner of Taylor and McPherson avenues, in the West End, was burglarized of $2,000 in cash and a lot of valuable jewelry. The robbery was commit-ted after the burgiars had chloroformed Mr. Wickham and his wife and sister, and it is now known that the burgiar or burgiars were secreted in the house all night awaiting the opportunity to thus chloroform its in mates and then get away with their rich

The startling story was the talk of all the employes and patrons of the Grand Restaurant from an early hour this morning. Mr. Wickham's first step upon coming downtown had been to notify the police and then return to his residence with Detective Pat Lawler to put an investigation under way. The private watchman of that block, whose name Mr. Wickhan thinks is Murphy, was not at home to-day and Detective Lawler is looking for him. The only clew to the identity of the burglar and chloroformer is the measurement of the imprint of his shoe in the dust of the front yard of the Wickham residence. A short time after the Wickham house was burglarized robbers were disturbed in the work of sacking the house of Mr. A. L. Berry of the Berry-Horn Coal Co., just across the street from the Wickhams. Mr. Berry awoke and fired two shots at the unseen thieves in the dark, forcing them to flee.

USED CHLOROFORM. Mr. Charles H. Wickham was seen by a POST-DISPATCH reporter who had heard the story at the Grand Restaurant. He gave the details of the chloroforming and burglary as follows:

'my wife and sister told me there was a burglar hidden in the house. They had heard him down stairs, but were afraid to vivendi were that any schooner leaving port investigate, being alone. I laughed at them, because they have always been springing burglar and ghost stories on me. But to them I took a lamp and made a thorough search of the house, as I thought, from the cellar to the garret.

Then I went upstairs and took off my overcoat, coat and vest, and hung them across a chair. In the inside breast pocket of the vest was the sum of $2,000 in $100 bills, done up in a roll and secured with rubber bands. No one, not even my wife, knew that I had taken this money home last night. I intended to use it as a surprise to my partner to-day in paying off some notes that we have on two other restaurants here, one within halling distance she commenced olaon seventh street and one next door to the dime museum. Shortly after that we went to bed. Again during the night my wife woke me up and said she was sure there was a burglar in the house. I quieted her, laughing at her, and went to sleep again.

"This morning I was awakened by the sun "This morning I was awakened by the sun streaming in the room.

"I generally get up before daybreak, being wakened by the night-watchman ringing our front door bell, but he did not ring it this morning. When I got up I fell suddenly to the floor. I arose again and tried to walk, but fell once more from a strange weakness and blindness. I thought I must have been selzed with a sudden fainting spell.

After awade I recovered somewhat and then tried to arouse my wife, but could not. I next went to my sister's room, and after much difficulty aroused her. Then, following much effort, we at last awoke my wife. The smell of chloroform was plainly noticeable in the rooms. Papers, etc., were scattered about the floor. The first thing I looked for when I realized what must have happened was the $2,000 in my yest. noticeable in the foors. The first thing I looked for when I realized what must have happened was the $2,000 in my vest pocket. It was gone. All my wife's jewelry and about $50 in money which she had was gone also. The only things of that nature not taken were a diamond stud in my shirt and my wife's watch, set with diamonds. My wife's pocketbook had been rified and then thrown on the ground outside the house. The print of a man's shoe leaving the house was in the dust of the front whik. It was about a No. 10 shoe. This is the only clue we have. Last night, I suppose, after we had been robbed, Mr. Berry, across the street, was awakened by robbers in his house and fired at them, frightening them away. He did not see them and so can give no description. Our night watchman was an old man whose name I think is Murphy. His failure to wake me up and to show up afterwards is strange. I know he could not have rung the front door bell, because the front door was wide open, as the robbers had left it. The parlor window was also open. Mr. Berry's front door and parlor window were also wide open.

"Both houses are right under the electric light on that corner, so that the night watchman, had he been doing his duty, must have seen all these open doors and windows. The number of my house is 401 North Taylor avenue. I am sure that we were all chioroformed by the burglars, who must have been hidden in the house all night.

ALASKA GLACIERS.

Prof. Reid and His Two Assistants Rescued by the Pinta.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 6 .- The following letter has been received at the Navy Department from Lieutenant-Commander Maynard ng the United States ship Pinta at Sitka, Alaska, under date of Sept. 15 last: From the captain of the steamer City of Topeka, which arrived at Killisno on Sept 14, I learned that there was reason to fear that Prof. Reid and two assistants, who have been engaged in making a scientific examination of the Muir glacier during the summer, had met with some accident and needed assistance. The Captain had been at the glacier on Sept. 1, expecting to find Prof. Reid there and bring him away, as no other trips will be made by the steamer to Glacier Bay this season; but none of the party were found at their cabin near the face of the glacier, and no message had been left in regard to their whereabouts. Their boat was gone, but their effects were still in the cabin. I sailed on the 5th for Glacier Bay. On the 6th in ley Straits, just before rounding the entrance of Glacier Bay. we met Prof. Reid and one assistant in a small 15-foot boat, with which they were trying to reach Junia, in order to obtain assistance. One assistant had been left at the glacier with the instruments and baggage of the party, as the boat was too small to carry more than the two men. They had been two days in making the thirty miles, which they were then distant from the glacier, and had a limited amount of hard bread only in the way of provisions. I took them on board with their boat and stood off into Glacier Bay, out as the weather came on thick and rainy I anchored at 1 p. m. in Bartlett Bay. The weather having been cleared on the following morning I proceeded up Glacier Bay, and although it was well filled with lee, I succeeded in making the face of the glacier at 3:30 p. m., when the third man of the party was found and taken on board, together with all instruments and effects.

Leaving the glacier at 4 p. m., we were clear of the boay and the ice at 7:30 o'clock and reached Sitka at 3 p. m. on Sept. 6.

Prof. Reid stated in explanation of his absence from the cabin on Sept. 1, when the City of Topeka arrived, that he had gone in the steamer Queen, which had reached the glacier on Aug. 30, to the great Pacing glacier on Aug. 31 and had returned to within eight miles of his cabin and could neither see the ship nor be seen by her an account of intervening land and ice.

BROUGHT THE SEALERS TO SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 6 .- The sealing chooner Willard Ainsworth returned yesterday from her maiden sealing cruise, which netted her 880 skins. The Ainsworth had an exciting brush with the U. S. ship Mohican, on May 23. Last year the terms of the modus before the agreement had been made, and not being warned, could not be selzed for taking seals in the Behring Sea. Nearly all the schooners this year left port before the new modus vivendi had been signed, and did not known that it provided for selzure in the sea whether or not warning had been given. Consequently every schooner that sighted a CARMAUX MINERS.

No Indications of Yielding by Either Side to the Controversy.

PARIS. Oct. 6.-It was hoped that some ar angement would be arrived at to settle the ong continued struggle of the miners at Carmaux, who are on strike because of the disnac, a working miner, who was some time ago elected Mayor of Carmaux. The company claimed that he devoted too much of his time to his municipal duties and dispensed with his services. The men demanded his reinstatement, and when this was refused a majority of the miners went on strike. Much disturbance has resulted and a number of disorderly miners have been sent to prison. Neither side will yield an inch, though it is generally thought that if a little more generous elasticity was shown on each side the trouble could be easily adjusted. To-day the union held a meeting and decided that they would continue the struggle.

The glassworks at Carmaux employ many hands and they also are on a strike. They went out in sympathy with the miners in the latter's efforts to secure the reinstatement of M. Caivignac. claimed that he devoted too much of his time he latter's efforts to nent of M. Calvignac.

It Was He Who Gave Back Antonio Marshall's Money.

Sensational Development in the Now Famous Remit Case.

CONRAD KEMPF SECURES A CONFESSION FROM HIS NEPHEW.

The Boy Was Given the Money by Page Padberg and Given Also the Name of a Fictitious Person From Whom He Was to Claim He Had Received It-He Forgot His Story.

The mysterious "Marshall remit case" is sing its mystery by degrees. As it does so, the still more mysterious Thos. E. Smith, who figured as the wicked beneficiary of the remitted fine and then apparently dropped off the face of the earth, promises fair to assume material form and substance. As to "local habitation and a name," it is safe to say that both are better known in the Mayor's office at the City Hall than Secretary Brennan, the author of the now famous "O. K. -Jim," would have the public believe.

It will be remembened that when, on last Monday morning, the boy Henry Helmann showed up at the Mayor's office with the $12, which "de push" had tried to defraud Antoine Marshall of, he told Sergt. McGrew that the money came from his uncle, Conrad Kempf, living at No. 4813 South Broadway, to whom, he said, it had been handed by Thos. E. Smith, "the Sphinx of the Noonan push."

CAME FROM THE MATOR'S OFFICE. This was a mistake. The $12 had been handed to young Hermann by Page Padberg of the Mayor's office, together with a fictitious name and address to be used by the boy in refunding the "Marshall remit" to Sergt, McGrew.

But Sergt, McGrew frightened young Helmann at the outset by threatening to place him under arrest as a party to the suspicious "Marshall remit" transaction, and in his fright the boy forgot the name and address given him by the Mayor's page, and so, panic-stricken, used that of his own uncle, as stated. This proves to be the weak link in the chain of mystery thrown round the whole disgrace-ful $12 affair. Mr. Conrad Kempf objected to the use of his name in connection with such a deal, and began to investigate. He secured a confession from his nephew, the boy Henry Helmann, and thus Page Padberg of the Mayor's office came into sudden prominence.

Mr. Kempf's first knowledge of the "Marshall remit" case came from his reading the story in the Post-Disparch of Tuesday, in which he figured as the man to whom mysterious Thos. E. Smith had refunded the $12 to be forwarded to the Mayor's office. As soon as he could spare the time from his business Mr. Kempf proceeded to invesand take such action as would clear him from any connection with the "Marshall remit" deal. Last night he saw his nephew, Henry Heimann, and got a confession from him. To-day he told the whole story to the Post-Disparch. It is an "idyll of the Push," of purest ray serene.

CONRAD KEMPF'S SENSATIONAL STORT.
"I was never so astonished in my life," said Mr. Kempf, "as when I saw how I was made to figure in the case. I know absor nothing of it. I had never heard of Thomas E. Smith, or Patrick Daly, or of Antoine Marshall. The only person mentioned in the whole story whom I know, besides my nephew, was Jim Brennan, and I know nephew, was Jim Brennan, and I know him only to speak in passing. I never had any dealings with him or with the Mayor's office in my life. I was at a loss to imagine how my nephew came to be mixed up in the affair, or how my name came to be used by him. My friends began to chaff me about being a big member of the 'push,' and I determined to clear the thing up and then ever how the fact. give the Post-Disparch the facts in the case give the Post-Dispatch the facts in the to vindicate myself.

'Last night I went to see my nephew, Henry Helmann, at No. 3823 Indiana avenue, and asked him if it was true that he had acted as the messenger in returning that $12 to the Nayor's office, and also why he had used my name in the matter. The boy, then confessed to me the truth about the whole thing. He stated the whole thing. Padberg, used my name in the matter. The boy, then confessed to me the truth about the whole thing, He stated that last sunday morning young Padberg, who is Mayor Noonan's page and a son of Padberg who keeps the Wild Hunter' at No. 380 South Broadway, came to him and asked him to take the $12 down to the Deputy Marshal's office in Carondelet. Young Padberg gave my nephew a fictitious name and address to be used in stating where the money

Seo South Broadway, came to him and asked him to take the $12 down to the Deputy Marshal's office in Carondelet. Young Padberg gave my nephew a fictitious name and address to be used in stating where the money came from. But the deputy marshal at Carondelet refused to receive the money, and so my nephew returned and toid young Padberg of the refusal, which then made it necessary that the $12 should be taken to the Mayor's office.

"On the following morning Padberg, the Mayor's page, called by for my nephew and took him on up-town to the Mayor's office. My nephew was instructed by Padberg to give the $12 to Sergt. McGrew, tell that officer the story agreed on and use the fictitious name and address given him by Padberg. So he went into the Mayor's office after Padberg had already entered and handed the money to Sergt. McGrew.

"McGrew, before the boy could tell his story, began questioning him closely and talking about arresting him, and my nephew got so badly scared that when he began to tell the story on which he had been 'coached' by the Mayor's page, he utterly forgot the fictitious name and address which Padberg had given him to use. My nephew tells me that he then said to sergt. McGrew:

"'If you don't believe me you can see Mr. Conrad Kempf, of No. 4818 South Broadway, who is my uncle."

"My nephew says that he did not tell McGrew that I had given him the $12 to take to the Mayor's office, but only referred to me to support his story. He says he did that because he was so frightened that he hardly knew what he was doing.

"Last night, after my nephew had told me the truth about this matter, I took him with and went to Padberg's 'Wild Hunter' saloon to see young Padberg, the Mayor's page, and confirm the story by him. Young Padberg acknowledged that my nephew had told the truth about his connection with the affair, but begged me not to make the story public, as he feared that the exposure of the real facts in the case would cause him to be discharged from the Mayor's page, and confirm the story, because th the Marshall remit indorsed "O. K.—Jim," and on that indorsement the celebrated "Edward A. Noonan, Mayor" rubber stamp was brought into play by Page Padberg, the remit of Antoine harshall's fine was issued to "Thos. E. Smith," and that gentleman disappeared from the Mayor's office and apparently from the face of the earth. Page Padberg also was pitfully unable to tell what sort of a looking man "Thos. E. Smith" was. That Page Padberg should now figure as the very one to whom "Thos. E. Smith" or somebody else, returned the 512, obtained on the rubber stamp remit of the Marchall fine, and should so carefully load little Henry Heimann with a story to be told Sergt. McGrew, is suspicious. Page Padberg nimself is only a boy, too young to have developed yet into a push diplomate capable of getting up such a scheme. Who is the push magnate standing behind Page Padberg? The whole story of the "Marshall remit" is now centered in the Mayor's office, like the negro's coon trap, both "comin' and gwine." It has its mysterious beginning and its mysterious ending there. Somewhere in the Mayor's office the material or disembodded spirit of the mysterious "Thomas E. Smith" must also find an abiding place.

Secretary Brennan, or Page Padberg, could not be seen at the Mayor's office to-day. Being a legal holiday, the office was closed.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 6 .- Gen. Weave says he will certainly go to Pulaski and speak there Saturday, and that he had no intention of canceling his appointments.

Letters from the most conservative people in Pulaski and Glies Counties urge strongly that Weaver be dissuaded from coming, as there are grave fears of a seriou battle if he appears there. I utterance will be criticised and all over the country, including many of the old Confederate soldiers, are arming and preparing to go to Pulaski, swearing that they will protect him in speaking and defend him against assault. Both sides are determined and neither will yield to the other if it comes to blows. Abloody fight will certainly follow the firing of a single gun. There are those who believe that Gen. Weaver may use such temperate language as to forestall any trouble, but even the tension and the strong feeling would, in all likelihood, lead to trouble. Every effort is being made by the State Democratic Committee to secure a quiet hearing for Weaver and to prevent any violent outbreak, but letters received say that no argument will avail; that if Gen. Weaver utters an imprudent word he will be killed, and that all the conservative people in Pulaski cannot prevent it. They urge that the only safely lies in successfully urging Weaver not to fill his appointment. The state Democratic Committee are much disturbed over the situation.

IMPORTANT MEETING OF THE DEMOCRATIC STATE

COMMITTEE. TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 6.-Democrats from all ver the State are in town to-day to attend the meeting of the State Central Committee, which has been called for 4 o'clock this after noon. This committee meeting will be the most important the Democrats have held. It will have to deal with the bolters' convention, and the Democrats who have been consulted are pretty well agreed to the policy to be pursued. An address will be issued to the voters of the State, cailing attention to the bolt of the alleged stalwart wing. It will be an outspoken manifesto and the issues will be clearly drawn. There and the issues will be clearly drawn. the bolt of the alleged Stalwart wing. It will be an outspoken manifesto and the issues will be clearly drawn. There was placed in the hands of the committee a circular from Clay County, which contains a letter from William Mitchell to a Democrating Clay Center, offering him two railroad passes. The story which accompanies the letter is that this Democrat first wrote to J. M. Simpson, Chairman of the Republican State Central of the Republican State Central Committee, requesting passes to attend the Stalwart Democratic Convention. Simpson did not send the passes, but a few days later the following letter written on the Board of Railroad Commissioners' letter heads was re-

A number of the Democratic committeemen from the southwest bring proofs showing that the bills for the Democratic convention were circulated by postmasters and that John Showaiter, Assistant Bank Commissioner, and other Republican workers have been engaged in working up a crowd.

The Democratic Congressional Committee from the First District will demand that the State Central Committee use its influence to force Fred Close, the People's nominee, from the track in the interest of Ed Carroll, the Democratic nominee. The situation in the First District will be the most embarrassing which the State Central Committee will have to contend with. The Populists are determined to keep Close in the fight, as it is believed that the election of Col. A. A. Harris depends upon it. epends upon it. Chairman Jones and Dick Morris of the Executive Committee take the position that the state Central Committee in as no right to interfere in this matter and it is probable that the Central Committee will decide to leave the matter in the hands of the two Central Committees in the First District.

Six hundred were killed and many high government officials captured. Matters are now getting warm for the citizens of Caracas, and the prestige of Crespo's success may cause many of them to fly to his flag. From details received here the fight was a most bloody one, 600 men being left dead on the field of battle. Considering the size of the contending armies this indicates serious fighting on both sides. But stubborn as was the resistance of the Government levies they had to fly before the Crespists and were utterly routed. Crespo had at his disposal ome 14,000 men including 6,000 brought to him by Gen. Colino, who joined him some days ago at Valencia. Under Crespo were Gen. Vegas and Gen. Quintana, who started some days ago, by different roads, on the way to Caracas, their objective point. The Revolutionist General possessed twelve pieces of artillery and had the assistance of several Americans, besides that of Gen. Widener, a German, and Gen. Betalli, an Italian. Gen. Pulido, an uncle of the Acting President, was in command of the Governnent forces, numbering 6,000, and went to Los Teques, to take up a position in order to repel Crespo's advance on the capital, which was, thus denuded of troops. This defeat robs Acting President Villegas Pudo of his army. All the Government officials at Los Teques and those accompanying the presidental army are reported to be prisoners in Crespo's camp.

Crespo had made a formal demand for the surrender of the capital of Venezuela. He has backed up his demand with the anouncement that he intends to enter the city of Caracas to-morrow at the head of the evolutionary army.

La Guayra is still in the hands of the Sovernment, but it cannot hold out against the victorious Crespites. Foreigners here are now in jeopardy. It may be impossible to control the murderously inclined populace and the ruff anly element of

It has been reported within the last few days that Acting President Villegas Pulido was anxious to have Gen. Urdaneta return tended should resist Crespo's entry into Caracas. But Urdaneta is a fugitive and is between two fires, as, on his return here, would have to deal not only with Crespo but with Admiral Walker, and he is practi-fire on the robbers of the banks through the plate-glass windows, and for the space of two minutes a lively fusillade was kept up. The highwaymen at the First National Bank ran out of the back door into an alley, around a half block of business houses into the principal street and made for their horses. Those in the Condon Bank passed out of the front door and ran for their horses over the same route the entire party had rassed a few minutes before. robberies yesterday, with its attendant tragic results.

At the city jail an awning has been improvised, under which lie the four dead bindits in the coffins provided by the county, with a guard to see that they are not disturbed. Since morning a procession of sightseers which seems to be never-ending, have viewed the dead outlinws. The desperadoes, cold in death, their face's uncovered, seems to possess an attraction for the curious which is almost without parallel.

Among the thousands who have tiswed the bodies are many who have known the Daltons for years, and white their crimes deserve to place them be rounded the paic of sympathy, here and there are to be found people who can scarcely repress a sigh of regret for the fate of the dead men. The stairway leading to the room in which Emmet Daltons lies is always surrounded by a dense crown of men and women, who do their utmost to pursuade the guard to let them pass up the stairway to the prosence of the wounded man. All sorts of rossons are advanced by the propole for their requests, but with few exceptions they are not complied with.

THE ESCAPED BANDIT.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 6 .- Allie Ogee, the only member of the Dalton gang, who escaped at Coffeyville yesterday, was a native of this, resterday was the boldest move ever planned by the robber bands who have terrorized the West, exceeding in audacity anything ever conceived in the fertile brain of Jesse or Frank James. Its very daring was counted upon by the originator of the scheme to bring success. But it falled, and certainly ends the career of the men who for four years have set all law at defiance in the Southwest. It was almost 10 o'clock when the robbers rode into the town, six of them, riding good horses, and splendidly armed with Winchesters and revolvers. They came boldly down the principal street which at that hour was well filled with teams and pedestrians. Riding straight into the business portion of the town, they turned their horses into an alley and stopped immediately in front of the city jail, where they dismounted and tied their animals to the fence. They quickly passed east in the alley leading to the plaza, and four of them were observed to enter the bank of C. M. Condon & Co., while the other two went across the street and passed into the First National Bank.

KNOWN IN CALIFORNIA.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 6 .- The Dalton gang, which were exterminated yesterday, were only too well known in California tention on the street and the cry of "Bank William Dalton lived five miles from Livings Robbers' soon rang out on every side. Dozens stone, Mercer County, where he married of men rushed into Boswell & Co.'s and seized Winchesters and filled their pockets with ammunition and secured good positions facing the bank in the street. As many more men ran to Isham Bros. & Mansur's hardware store, where they seized upon every available weapon within reach and stationed themselves behind teams and other barricades in view of both banks.

The men with their Winchesters had opened fire on the robbers of the banks through the first of a farmer. He was frequently visited by his brothers, Grat tan, Emmet and Robert. Grattan first became notorious by his connection with the robbery of a train at Alla, Jam. 6, 1891. The Southern Pacific offered $3,000 for Dal-ton's capture, and strenuous efforts were made to secure him, dead or alive, but with-out success.

THE DEAD MARSHAL.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 6 .- Charles A. and Grace Connelly, respectively son and daughter of Marshal T. Connelly of Coffeyville, utes before. This brought them into full view of about fifty of our citizens, many of whom were armed with Winchesters and shotguns. By the time that the robbers reached their horses five of them were upon the ground. Marshal Chas. T. Connelly, who at the first alarm ran to a gunshop, near where the gang's horses were hitched, seized a Winchester and metthe robbers face to face as they reached their animals. He was shot through the heart with a Winchester and fell dead between two of the highwaymen.

THE TERRIBLE RESULT.

Before reaching their horses, however, the maranders had used Winchesters with terrible effect, and four men of the citizens' party lay dead. They are C. J. Brown, City Kan., who was killed while leading the posse which exterminated the desperate Dalton would have been tendered and he would have taken his place as Superintendent of he High Schools, now nearly completed. His plans were made and the proposition made to him by the High School Board had been accepted. Father had been a citizen of Coffeyville for four years, three of which were spent in the public schools. His election as city marshal was only for the vacation as it was thought he could in that time succeed in restoring order and in closing up the 'joints' which flourished at the time of his election. Our family consists of my mother, two sisters and myself. My father was a fearless man, however, and I am sure the allay. One of the party, however, during the confusion managed to get on his horse and role a half mile west of town, where he fell from the animal and died by the road-side. His horse was also wounded and died within a short distance of his rider. The citizens acted coolly and deliberately. Four of the gang fell pierced with from five to fifteen shots, while Emmet Dalton was shot through and through, ibut is still allye. The robbers who fell are: Bob Dalton, Grattan Dalton, Joe Evans, John Moore.

During the fight with the robbers over eighty shots were fired into the Condon Bank by men on the outside. One of the robbers through and the Sales and the could discount the James bors' work as shot in the arm would tied. The large plate glass in the First National Bank and at its ham's, as well as at Condon's bank, was litterally perforated by shots from the Winchesters of the gallant band, who rised their lives to rid the community of one of the most daring gangs of highwaymen that ever infested any country.

BANKER CARPENTER'S EXPERIENCE.
C. T. Carpenter of Condon & Co., who had charge of that bank when the robbers entered, said it was exactly 9:40 o'clock when the men entered the bank, and pointing Winchesters at him commanded him to hand over the cash:
"I undertook to parley with them and delayed complying as long as I could, when one of them passed around behind the counter into our private room, where Ball, the cashler, and Mr. Babb into the bank at the point of a Winchester. Mr. Ball explained that the cash was in the vault, and that the time-lock was on and the chest could no be opened until 9:45. One of the men coolly replied that they could wait the three minutes that would be required for the chest to open. In the meantime they compelled Mr. Ball to get a sack of silver amounting to about $4,000 that was in the vault and drag it outside of the counter. The weight was more than they could. If it, so they compelled me to empty it out on the floor while they stuffed all the currency within reach into the sack. They then passed out at the southwest door and ran across the street in the direction of Slosson's drug store. The fellow who had Charley Ball at the point of his Winchester cursed like a two open, and threatened to kill himiunless he got the currency out for him pretty guick. Just at the critical period, and when I thought all was up with us, I heard firing on the outside, and felt that relief would come to us, which it did in a moment, when the robbers took their departure. We recovered every cent of our money."

It was the believe who fore needed.

A RECORD OF MURDER AND ROBBERY. It was the Daltons who first used dynamite as a means of opening express cars. Their last exploit was the holding up of Missouri, Kansas & Texas passenger train No. 2, north-bound, at Adair, Friday night, July 14, after overpowering a posse of officers who were on-the train for the purpose of guarding it. It was reported that $75,000 was stolen from the safe of the Pacific Express Co. Bob Dalton is 24 years old, but looks older. He is 6 feet linch high and has broad shoul-

Jim is a hasty, dare-devil sort of fellow, and does not know the meaning of fellow, and does not know the meaning of fellow, it is supposed that these two Daltons nd the two in California have made into uccessful train robberles in the West and outhwest in the past eight years.

The Daltons first saw the light in Kansas. Their mother, who is a sister of Cole Younger, successful train robberles in the West and southwest in the past eight years.

The Daltons first saw the light in Kansas, Their mother, who is a sister of cole Younger, one of the James gang, is now living at Coffeyville, Kan.

One reason why they have so long evaded capture is the fact that they have made their rendezvous in the Indian Territory. The Cherokee Strip has no people upon it at all, and the Creek Katlon country is inhabited only by the indians, who never gave the robbers away, and who, in return for a horse or two occasionally, will furnish shelter and provisions. In the Creek country, which is 200 miles long and sixty miles wide, there is dense timber in which any number of men may hide themselves without fear of detection. The Dalton gang traveled with pack horses loaded with provisions, and as the men knew the country like a book they were in little danger after they left the prairie. It was easy enough to track them through the still prairie grass, but when they reached the timber country, with its deep ravines, it was impossible to follow them successfully. About $20,000 is now out for the heads of the Dalton outfit. This includes rewards for various crimes, for these men hesitate at nothing from horse thieving to murder.

Up to a few years ago the Daltons had confined their rascality to steading cattle and driving them through the 'public lands' into New Mexico and selling them along the route. Then when they got ready to return to the Territory they would steal a bunch of cattle in New Mexico and bring them home to soil, always returning by a different route. It did no good to indict them. Their friends dominated in the local courts, and even if they were brought to trial they got off scott free. Honest cattlemen of the Territory finally grew so exasperated at their thlevery that they organized to rid the territory of the Daltons, and waged bitter war upon them. It was then that the cattle theves perforce quit their old practices and turned their attention to train robbery.

On the 22d of last month the capture of the Daltons was reported in New Mexico. One of the Daltons impersonated an officer, went to Deming and reported the capture of the gang. He put in a claim for the reward offered by the railway companies. Bill Dalton is in a California prison for the Modesto robery.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Fatal Flames Again Visit the Michigan

City of Howell. DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 6 .- Five years ago last March the town of Howell, Mich., was visited by a fire which wiped out the best business blocks in the place. Yesterday afternoon the same block was destroyed and two prominent business men were burned to death. Another citizen died last night from injuries received in the fire and a number of others were more or less badly injured.

The dead and injured are: WILLIAM ISAACS, terribly injured; died at

:30 p. m. F. G. HICKEY, caught by a falling roof while saving goods. DARWIN WINES, burned and crushed while assisting Mr. Hickey. A. L. Cook, painfully burned and bruised. FRANK BAILEY, painfully bruised. CHARLES GOODNOLL, painfully bruised and FARRELL, a boy, had his arm broken. There were many other minor injuries re-ceived, but none needing a physician's care. The fire originated in the store of isaac Bush and soon spread to the building owned by Gov. Winans and occupied by Hickey & Goodnow as a dry goods store. It was in this latter place the loss of life oc-curred.

It was in this latter place the loss of the occurred.

The buildings destroyed were: Greenway's brick, occupied by Monroe Bros., dry goods; Gov. HAS AN UGLY LOOK.

Some Serious Charges Made in the Midwife Hagan Case.

A CONSPIRACY TO DEFEAT THE ENDS OF JUSTICE ALLEGED.

William Simmons Tells How He Was Ap proached to Compromise the Case-Dr. roome's Interest-Simmons' Interview With Dierkes-What the Physicians in the Case Have to Say.

The questing on a technicality of the information against Midwife Mary Hagen, who was to have had a preliminary hearing in the on a charge or performing a criminal opera-tion on Mrs. William Simmons of 911 Mound street, and the failure to issue a new warrant against the midwife, in view of the state-ments of Simmons and his wife, and also the doctor who treated Mrs. Simmons, looks peculiar, and the case on its face has the appearance of being another illustration of the "push" methods of administering justice at the Four Courts.

Mrs. Hagen was arrested in the latter part of August, but the case was continued until Oct. 4, on account of the dangerous condition of Mrs. Simmons, who was unable to appear as a witness. She is not able yet to leave the house, and was not present on Tuesday when the case was called. Her husband was on hand, however, with the other witthe case had been dismissed he left, not knowing what further to do, but learning later in the day that the matter could be reopened by the issuing of a new warrant he returned yesterday to see if that was going to be done. The result of his visit to the Four Courts yesterday and the full particulars in the case were given to a Post-DISPATCH reporter to-day by Simmons and his wife.

story of Mrs. Simmons and his wise.

STORY OF MRS. SIMMONS' CASE.

Mrs. Simmons stated that she was introduced to Mrs. Hagen, the midwife, some time in June last by Mrs. Lilly Overmeyer or Obermeyer of 1722 North Eleventh street, and the midwife, she stated, performed several operations of her. One was at the midwife. operations on her. One was at the midwife's operations on her. One was at the midwife's house, she said, 2024 Biddle street, and the others were at her own house about the middle of August. Mrs. Sophia Wagner, who lives at Thirteenth and Branch streets, Mrs. Simmons said, witnessed the operation at Mrs. Hagen's house and the woman who introduced her to the midwife, she said, was present at one of the operations in her own house. When she was taken seriously ill Dr. William Reilly was called in and Mrs. Simmons told him what had been done.

Simmons stated that Dr. Reilly attended the case a few days and refused to have any what had been done.

Simmons stated that Dr. Reilly attended the case a few days and refused to have anything more to do with it, and Dr. W. Seger of Broadway and Angelica street was called in. Two-days later Drs. Robert O'Reilly, W. C. Green and Dr. Graves were called in and took Mrs. Simmons' statement, and reported the matter to the Health Department and Mrs. Hagen was arrested. Dr. O'Reilly, Simmons said, took his wife's statement. A few days later Simmons again changed doctors and called in Dr. George L. Mueller of 102½ Brooklyn street, who has been treating the case ever since.

"The case was first set," said Mr. Simmons, "for Sept. 5 and Prosecuting Attorney Dierkes said he investigated it fully. When I called yesterday at his office I asked a man sitting in a chair, who seemed to be in charge, about the case. He turned to a man sitting beside him and asked him about the case and the man began to explain the technicality on which the warrant was quashed. Just then Mr. Dierkes came in, and the man I had spoken to said to him: 'Mr. Dierkes, what were the grounds on which the information in the Hagen case was quashed?' and Mr. Dierkes explained the same as the other man was doing when Mr. Dierkes entered, and added: 'Besides, I have information that they tried to extort money from the woman. It is a case of blackmail. I have also the statement of a physician that no malpractice was committed.'

DR. BROOME'S INTEREST.

"'Who is the physician?' I asked. Dierkes said he investigated it fully. When I called yesterday at his office I asked a man sitting in a chair, who seemed to be in charge, about the case. He turned to a man sitting beside him and asked him about the case and the man began to explain the technicality on which the warrant was quashed. Just then Mr. Dierkes came in, and the man I had spoken to said to him: 'Mr. Dierkes, what were the grounds on which the information in the Hagen case was quashed?' and Mr. Dierkes explained the same as the other man was doing when Mr. Dierkes, and added.' Besides, I have information that they tried to a to be sufficiently in the case, and had received a statement of a physician that no malpractice was committed.'

DR. BROOME'S INTEREST.

"Who is the physician?' I asked.

"Dr. Broome, 'replied Mr. Dierkes, and at the same time the man whom I had first spoken to said to Mr. Dierkes and pointing to me, 'That is Air. Simmons.'

"Yes,' said I, 'that is a statement of the defense?"

"No,' replied Mr. Dierkes, 'he is a reputable physician.'

"I can prove, said I, 'that Dr. Broome came to Dr. Mueller and asked him to use his influence with us to settle the case.'

"Well,' said Mr. Dierkes, walking into nother office, 'It is all over now. It is no use to talk about it."

"It have not."

"Have you been summoned as a witness in the case?"

"Inkeve not."

"Inkeve

"If then left the building.
"Dr. Mueller," continued Simmons, "came to me while he was attending my wife and told me that Dr. Broome had asked him to use his influence with us to settle the case. He said to go and see Mrs. Hagen and see what she wanted, that it could do no harm. I went to her house one evening and she asked me if there was nothing that could be done to settle, the case. She asked me how much it had cost me for doctors, etc. I told her I could not give her any answer, that I would think over the matter; I wanted to get advice. She said for me to call again, and that she would talk over the matter with her husband and Dr. Broome. I told her she knew where to find me, and she said it would not look well for her to call at my house, and I called again, as she requested. Her husband was present, and she said to him several times 'We will settle at the case, won't we, papa?' He would say something like yes, and at last said, 'we can't estile anything,' and I left the house. That is all there is in the blackmall business.

MRS. HAGEN OFFERED THEM MONEY.

said, 'we can't settle anything,' and I left the house. That is all there is in the blackmail business.

MRS. HAGEN OFFERED THEM MONEY.

"Shortly after Mrs. Hagen was released on ball she came to my house and said she wanted to do something to help me. 'I have given my lawyer $25,' said she. 'Had I not better go and get it?'

"I said I did not know anything about her affairs. Then she said, 'Here is $10', and she handed me a bill. I did not see what the denomination of the bill was, but I refused it. She then tried to make my wife's sister, who was sitting beside her, take the money, but I told her not to take it. She called again and met my brother and he told me that she tried to make him take money for us. My brother is now in San Francisco, Cal. My wife's sister is Mrs. Delia Hamschmidt of 614 Easton avenue. Dr. Broome does not know anything about the case. He never attended my wife that I know of.''

The 'reporter was shown a prospectus of the Woman's Medical College of St. Louis, in which was the name Dr. George W. Broome, M. D., Dean. Mrs. Hagen's name appeared in the back of the pamphlet under the heading: "Class in Special spring Term of 1892." Mrs. Simmons said that Mrs. Hagen had given her the pamphlet and told her that she had more money in the institution than any one else.

Dr. Mueller was seen at his office and said: "I was called to attend Mrs. Simmons about 12 o'clock on the night of Sept. I. She had a hemorrhage when I called. She had pelvic peritionitis, or inflammation of the peritoneum. It was evident that instruments had been used unskilfully. My observations proved that there had been an abortion, but I cannot say of course what caused it. Dr. Broome called on me and asked me to use my influence with the Simmons to stop the prosecution. He said there might not have been malpractice, and influence with the Simmon to stop the prosecution. He said there might not have been malpractice, and told him I could prove there was and I told

I told him I could prove there was and I told him my proof.
"It was about the middle of September he called. I think it was Sept. 18. I received a telephone message from Dr. Rernays, asking ne when I would be in my office. Dr. froome has an office in the Commercial uliding, at Sixth and Olive, the same build it in which Dr. Bernays has his office, but he mome has no telephone and Dr. Bervys telephoned. I said I would be in in the sunbod, and Dr. Broome called about 2 p. I think. I had never seen him before."
What did you tell Dr. Broome when he ed, you to use your influence with the mons to stop the prosecution of Mrs. en?" asked the reporter.

DR. BROOME SEEN.

Dr. Broome was found in his office to-day and asked regarding his alleged assertion to Mr. Dierkes.

Mrs. Hagen is a Christian woman, and i could not speak regarding it. Mrs. Hagen is a Christian woman, and I don't think she would commit a criminal act, and in this belief I am backed by the whole medical faculty. I am not seeking to shield Mrs. Hagen. If we thought she was guilty we would not have her in our school. She is a regular midwife and is also attending a three years' course in our college. I being the dean of the college am brought forward a little more in defending her. Those people tried to blackmall her and extort money from her, and we simply want to see justice done her.'

"How about Dr. Mueller's statement that you asked him to use his influence with the Simmonses to have the prosecution of Mrs. Hagen stopped?" Simmonses to have the prosecution of Mrs. Hagen stopped?"

'I don't think you will find that Dr. Mueller said that."

Being assured that Dr. Mueller had made the statement Dr. Broome said:

'I told Dr. Mueller that I could not see what good the prosecution would do."

Dr. Broome said that he told Dr. Mueller that he might be mistaken with regard to the evidence to which he referred, and Dr. Broome gave to the reporter an illustration of how Dr. Mueller might be mistaken.

Suicide of William M. Runk, a Philadelphia Merchant.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 6 .- William M Runk, aged 46 years, a member of the large dry goods firm of Darlington, Runk & Co., 8 Co., and a wealthy and influential citi- sent a bullet into his brain at his home, No zen of Philadelphia, committed suicide at his 2607 Gravols avenue, at 10 o'clock last night, country home, at St. Davids, near here, at 8 'clock last evening, by shooting himself ments and feelings too tender for trifling through the temple. No cause can be hurts. Hartman was sent to the City ascribed. He carried $525,000 insurance on Hospital as soon as an ambulance his life. He was at his place of business yesterday, and appeared to be extremely this morning. His wife, Louisa Hartman, to nervous, as he had been for a day or two. Late in the afternoon he went to his home and for two hours his wife noticed that he was irrational, but supposing went to his home and for two hours his wife noticed that he was irrational, but supposing it was due to some business trouble, gave it no especial attention. After sending one of his sons to the railroad station to meet an employe of the store, he went to his stable and with a small Smith & Wesson revolver put a bullet through his temple, dying instantly. He was seen to go into the stable by the gardener, and a few minutes later was seen by the same person cold in death.

The report of the pistol was not heard. The news of the suicide did not reach this city until to-day and because of the prominence of the victim it spread rapidly. The deceased was very wealthy and his business is n fine shape and no cause can be ascribed for his action. The only theory is that his mind became unbalanced and during a fit of mental aberration he ended his life. He leaves two boys by his first wife, one of whom is at Yale, and the other at the University of Pennsylvanias and children by the second wife. His city home was

HIS SISTER-IN-LAW WANTED TO KISS A BOARDER.

Hartman Thought She Was Injuring the Reputation of His House and Slapped Her-She Had Him Arrested and He Shot Himself-The Carondelet Suicide Identified by Her Children.

The rash mood in which Ernest Hartman points a moral to persons given to soft senticould be summoned, and died at 4:30 o'clock day told the story of her husband's troubles which drove him to suicide. Their home is across the street from the old Union Depot railway car stables, and Mrs. Hartman has a large number of motormen and conductors as boarders. Two weeks ago, she stated, her sister, Katle Jeraid, who used to do housework for her, remarked to one of the boarders, "Won't you let me kiss you?" Mr. Hartman, who was present, upbraided her for this remark and told her that such conduct would lower the not take Mr. Hartman's words in good part, but talked back, for which he slapped her on the cheek. She called a policeman and had him arrested, and he, ashamed at the disgrace, purchased a revolver as soon as he was liberated, and returned to his home, presumably to shoot himself. Katle, according to Mrs. Hartman, saw him coming, and locked the front and reargates. He tried 'the front gate and, seeing that he was barred out, he pulled out his revolver and placed it to his head. Mrs. Hartman saw the movement and implored him not to kill himself. He relented from his purpose for her sake and she let him in. Katle left about the same time, but, according to Mrs. Hartman, her husband, Ernest, did not recover from his fit of despondency. He constantly brooded over calumnies about him which he believed that his sister-in-law was spreading. He was especially fearful, said Mrs. Hartman, of certain things which he thought that Katle had told to her nucle, who, according to Mrs. Hartman, is a certain Father Brockhaven of O'Fallon, Mo. Mr. Hartman was very much ashamed to face his priestly uncle, who was expected in the city to-day. Added tothis was the loss of his position. Hartman was employed it a planting mill in North St. Louis. He had been late several times recently, and yesterday morning he took his belongings and went to board near his place of business. Last night he came home and told his wife that he had been discharged and intended to shoot himself. She begged him not to do so, and assured him that she sided with him, and not with her sister. But about 10 o'clock he found the revolver, which she took from him two weeks ago, and fired the fatal shot through his right temple. Mrs. Hartman did not know why he had been discharged, but suspected that he had had a fight with his brother-in-law, John Jerald, with whom he had trouble before. Hartman was 25 years old and had been married two years. purchased a revolver as soon was liberated, and returned to

Identified as Mrs. Mary Zimmer The body of a woman found in the Missis sippi River, near the Vulcan Iron Works, by Louis Schmidt and Andrew Hanson at Louis Schmidt and Andrew Hanson at 5 o'clock last evening, was identified at the Morgue this morning as that of Mrs. Mary Zimmer, a widow 46 years of age, residing with her four daughters and one son at 4126 Clayton road. Her married daughter, Mrs. Maggie Geisel, who lived with her mother and sisters, identified the body. When the news of their mother's sad effid was carried home to the childen, the little one-story brick house was a scene of sadness and tears. Between her sobs two of Mrs.

Zimmer's daughters told what they knew of her mother's troubles. She said that for six or seven months her mother nad been afflicted with the ailments due to her years and was very despondent, frequently threatening self-desiruction. She left home yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. When her daughter, Mrs. Gelsel, came home from a day's labor at the wash-tub yesterday she inquired for her mother and her sisters said she had been gone since morning. Mrs. Gelsel at once went in search of her mother and roamed about Forest Park last night in hopes of finding her there. This morning she went to the Morgue and discovered her dead, The watchman of the Vulcan Iron Works saw a woman walk along the railroad track about noon yesterday and t was probably Mrs. Zimmer, who sprang n to the river at that time and was fished out a corpse at 5 o'clock last e rening.

It was not positively stated what the purchase price is, but it is underwhat the purchase price is, but it is understood to be $1,000 a foot for the Chestnut street frontage of 127½ feet, by a depth of 48 on Sixth street. Thomas G. Watts has displayed a good deal of energy in working up a sale of the premises, and it was finally consummated in connection with Greenwood & Co. to Otto L. Mersman of Nelson & Mersman, who bought the goand for Chicago parties, their intention being to improve the site with a fine office ballding, something after the plan of the Houser Bullding at the northwest corner of Chestnut street and Broadway, the depth of that building from its main street frontage being only forty-one its main street frontage being only forty-one feet.

At the rear of the vacant 127½-foot Chestnut street frontage, the Nicholson estate owns the 48 feet adjoining on the west side of Sixth street, and that property where the Nicholson grocery store was destroyed by fire is to be rebuilt by David Nicholson, who has his plans ready to erect an eight-story building on the old site, where his business will be re-located. His brother, Peter Nicholson, has leased the Chapman building, on the east side of Broadway, between Olive and Pine, and will establish a grocery business at that place on his own account. Real estate agents and property owners on Chestnut street are very much pleased that the ownership of the corner of Sixth street has passed into new hands, parties who will undoutedly improve the valuable location with much advantage to the business interests of their into new hands, parties who will undoubtedly improve the valuable location with much advantage to the business interests of their street. INDIANA can hardly be classed as a doubtful State. The refusal of the Supreme Court to advance the apportionment case on the docket saves the Australian ballot for this election and prevents the wholesale purchase of votes. Judge Gresham's influence is worth 3,000 or 4,000 votes and the Democratic plurality in Indiana two years ago was over 19,000.

IT does not break the force of Gresham's defection to say that he owes his political advancement to the Republican party. He and men like him made it a grand party and contributed to its glory. A STUPID CHARGE.

The local Republican organ tries to faster upon Judge Altgeld the sneering charge of Gov. Fifer that being a millionaire he is as much a dangerous plutocrat as the tariff barons whom the Democrats denounce.

The charge is as stupid as it is malignant. Judge Altgeld did not make his money through the favor of a political party. He did not make it through legislation which gave him the privilege of ab sorbing the earnings of the people by means of a Government tax levied for that purpose. He is not giving money to corrupt the ballot box in order that this "unearned advantage" over his fellow-citizens may be perpetuated. He is not, therefore, good man's hat brim is twenty-three feet a plutocrat of the tariff-born sort. His in circumference. MORE CARNEGIE ROT.

While Carnegie's man Frick with all the resources of wealth and discriminating laws is waging war upon his workingmen to grind down their wages for the increase of Carnegle's millions, while these workingmen are struggling for fair wages in agonized desperation and while the battle is causing bloodshed, tears, heartaches, heartbreaks, hunger and all manner of human misery, Carnegie, puffing himself up with the egotism of pharisaic philanthropy, speaks these words at the laying of the corner-stone of a memorial library which he is building for the Scottish city

I feel more strongly bound than ever to devote the remaining years of my life less to aims ending in self and more to the service of others, using my surplus wealth and spare time in the manner most likely to produce the greatest good to the masses of the people. There is a half truth in Carnegie's words. His wealth not only comes from the masses, but it is wrung from the masses by unjust laws, which allow him to filch it from their scanty earnings. the necessities of the masses.

The man and the circumstances make this speech of Carnegie's an unparalleled combination of devilish sophistry and hypocritical rot. Carnegie philanthropy is an abomination.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT.

In his admirable speech before the be conducted under what is called the League of Democratic Clubs, President King's jury system which has come to Chauncey Black gave a masterful exposius from the English law. Under this law tion of the principles of sound Democratic prosecution may excuse as many as it of the Republican party from these principles and its own these words:

In 1888, for the first time in American history, a political party found itself so dependent upon the monopoly monsters of its creation, as to be compelled to announce the unheard of doctrine that tariff taxes might be laid with a sole view to defeat public revenue and thereby to advance private interests at the common expense. Their system, well illustrated in the McKinley bill, wrings inreased and increasing taxes from the people, but it carries the proceeds to the private coffers of its favorites and not to the common treasury.

It is this monstrous abuse of the taxing power for the enrichment of the few at the expense of the people, bringing in its train as inevitable consequences the building up of a plutocracy, and the corruption of the ballot box and tyrannous use of federal powers to maintain its hold upon the Government and its robber privileges which has driven such honest Republicans as Gresham, Cooley and MacVeagh to openly desert their party and denounce its policy as one dangerous to the liberties of the

These are men of clear brains and sound patriotic convictions. They have clung to Republicanism in the hope that its errors nay be rectified, but when they see that it is the helpless tool of organized greed to which it turns over the very citadel of liberty-the taxing power; when they see this taxing power used to take the hard earnings of the poor for the benefit of the rich, and a part of these ill-gotten gains used to perpetuate the wrong, they know what that means. They know that the enslavement of the people lies that way. They know that the time has come for honest and patriotic citizens to sink party affiliations for the good of the country.

From this standpoint of courageous citizenship ex-Attorney-General Mac-Veagh ably presents the situation when he writes that the Republican plutocratic policy must be overthrown because: Until then the right of each state to con-trol its elections within its borders will not be secure; there is no prospect of our enjoying the single and stable standard of value tions possess; there is no hope of placing cither our pension system or the regulation of immigration upon a just and proper basis; the purification of our politics will continu the "iridescent dream" which high Repub lican authority has declared it must always remain, and any pretended reform of the proved himself better than his party in and the dead and living members of his snare. All patriotic Republicans must ponder upon these things.

In the yard of the Church of the Holy Cross, in Chicago, there is a pole 104 feet high, surmounted by a cross, and beneath this cross floats the American flag. Father Hishen says it symbolizes the union of religion and patriotism. Some object that this is placing a church symbol above the flag; yet a flag above a cross would look a little queer. However, if all patriots are religious and all religionists are patriots no great harm will come of churchyard flag-poles.

There is many a true word spoken in jest. The Democrats do object to paying worse han war taxes after twenty-seven years of The original Morrill war tariff im posed an average duty of about 30 per cent. The average duty under the McKinley law is about 46 per cent.

The Democrats object to squandering surplus instead of stopping it by reducing

They object to the carrying of elections by ribery and fraud under the rascally system of Dudleys, Quays, Martins and Hacketts. They object to having the Republicans hold on to the offices after being voted out, as they have done in Connecticut, New Hamp shire. Nebraska and Montana.

He had the courage twice to refuse appointments to high Federal office e believed that some influence which he could not give out of his own stern convic tion of duty would be expected of him in the proffered positions. When a man like this withdraws from the party to which he has long given his allegiance, it is more than or-dinary desertion. DEATH CAME UNNOTICED BY THE WATCHERS AT THE BEDSIDE.

No Trace of Pain or Suffering Marked the End-Scenes in the Chamber of Death-The Complication of Diseases Which Caused the Sad Event-Topics of Europe's Capitals.

The persecutions are as violent as ever, in spite of the treaties made in April, which should afford them protection. Thousands of Catholics, the Bishop adds, are destined to die, or have already been killed. The British are trying to protect them, but orture inflicted upon Princess Sara to induce her to abjure Catholicism. He says the King abjured the faith and was again placed upon his throne. He then joined in the persecu-tions of the Catholics, but allowed Princess Sara to rejoin them. The Catholics recently started out of the district, taking with them 300 women. Before they had proceeded far the caravan was attacked and captured by Protestants, who abducted all the women. An attempt was made to recapture them, but only a few were recovered.

THE TRANS-CAUCASUS REGION THE FOCUS OF THE EPIDEMIC.

How It Crossed the Mountains and Worked Its Way Along the Valleys-Ineffectual Efforts to Bar the March of the Plague-Hamburg's Health Bills-Sporadic Cases in American Cities.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 6 .- The Marine lospital Bureau has caused to be translated sedical journal of Constantinople descripto Asia and Europe. The article states that the Eastern and Southern part of the Trans-Caucasus were the focus of the epidemic, and in a period a little more than two months, or from June 20 to Aug. 24, there were about 30, 000 choleraic deaths in the Caucasus out of a population of about 5,000,000, or one death in about 200 of the inhabitants.

ulent foci ever known in a cholera epi-demic. As to the history of the progress of the disease the article states: "If we cast a glance over the progress of the epidemic we will see that it started from Djellabad, a city in Afghanistan, situated between Peshawur and Cabul, about the month of December, 1891, that it slowly traversed the mountain ous territory separating Cabul from Herat, which latter place it reached in March, 1892; that it gained Meched in the Khorassan about May 27, from four to five months after leaving Djellabad, but from Meched after leaving Djellabad, but from Meched it reached the Trans-Caspian Railway about June 20, appearing at the stations of Askalabad and Ousormada on the Caspian Sea. It was, therefore, six months and more in traveling from Afghanistan to the Caspian Sea, but there it encountered other railways and routes of navigation and traveled to St. Petersburg, in Northern Russia, and Hamburg, in Northewestern Germany, in less than two months. The rapidity of its progress was therefore quadrupled during the second stage of its illne of travel. At the time of writing, choiera exists in three-fourths of the immense territory of Russia, in some portions of Germany, in Antwerp, Havre, etc. There is still cause to dread the choieraic foci in the Caucusus and Persia, but the consistions prevailing there are less threatening that during the month of August.

PECK'S CASE POSTPONED.

The Commissioner's Counsel Picks Flaws in the Indictment.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 6, -The Peck case came up in the Court of Sections to-day on the demurrer to the indictment found against the records. Mr. Peck and his stenographer were present with Mr. Meegan, their counsel. Assistant District Attorney Cohen appeared for the prosecution. Mr. Meegan said the idictment found was a fraud upon pared and in his opinion it did not specifically state what public records Mr. Peck is charged with destroying.

He said that pursuant to the provisions of the code under which these indictments struction of public records; that they were public records; that they should have been filed or deposited; that such circulars or received had been filed by authority of law. The dictment was found on the alleged destr tion of certain public records, books, pay and documents, but no specific charge made of the destruction of the circulars answers. An argumentative indictment and documents, but no specific charge is made of the destruction of the circulars and answers. An argumentative indictment cannot stand in law, especially one is. The court should look beyond the indictment and ascertain the law in regard to the documents for the destruction of which this indictment was found. This indictment charged that certain papers termed "public records," etc., and it was never intended they should be filed.

It is alleged in the indictment that the statistical details which should be embodied in the Commissioner's ahnual report had been destroyed. Mr. Moegan held that according to all authorities, the circulars and answers were not statistical detail, but that the term referred solely to the arrangements and combination of the facts contained in the circulars and answers should not have been filed and could, properly, have been destroyed after the compliations had been made by Mr. Peck for his annual report. There is no law requiring these circulars or answers to be filed and the District attorner said Mr. tions had been mane by Ar. Feck for his annual report. There is no law requiring these circulars or answers to be filed and the District Attorney said Mr. Meegan could cite no law showing the circulars were public record and should have been filed and preserved.

Mr. Cohen rose to answer Mr. Meegan, saying that the prosecution would attempt to show that these circulars and answers were public records and had been on file in the Labor Bureau, when Judge Clute said: "Then I understand the only question you here diagree on is that these circulars were public records?" Mr. Cohen: "Yas, sir. If you decide that they were not public records?" Mr. Cohen: "I'am not prepared to decide such an important question of law on the arguments presented, and shall adjourn the case until the 18th."

MR. BOYD, ACROSS THE WAY, SHOOTS AT THEM.

Afterwards They Decorate the Latter's New House With Fresh Paint and Varnish-Police Deny the Story of Lou Sing's Disappearance-Other Police Happenings.

Some time after midnight last night Mr. J. G. Boyd, who is connected with the Municipal Electric Light & Power Co. of this city but who lives in the suburban town of Maple od, awoke thirsty and arose to get o drink. It was a beautiful moonlight night and Mr. Boyd stepped to his window and looked out at the sylvan scene in front of his residence. He saw, to his surprise, that Maplewood answered perfectly the descrip tion of Ceylon's isle given in an old hynm, where "every prospect pleases, and only man is vile."

Two burglars were preparing to burgle the residence of Mr. Boyd's neighbor, Mr. A. B. Carpenter, across the street. One of the burglars was bending over, leap-frog fashion, and the second was standing on the "back' made by the first, trying to open Mr. Carpenter's front parlor window. Mr. Boyd stepped back and got his pistol. Unfortunately the blinds of his windows were closed, and he would have to open them to get a shot at the strange looking combination of legs and arms under Mr. Carpenter's window. He did so, and with the betraying noise the legs and arms suddenly took flight, with one shot from Mr. Boyd's pistol chasing them. The burglarious lean-froggers disappeared around the corner of the house they were trying to enter. Mr. of the house they were trying to enter. Mr. Boyd called with a loud voice to his neighhoyd carled with a loud voice to his neigh-hor, Mr. Carpenter, and then went to bed and asleep again.

His own recidence is not quite finished yet, the lower floor, open, was stored with furni-ture, his family are in the East and Mc. Boyd was sleeping there to prevent the furniture from being stolen. Several hours after the Carpenter episode he was awakened by son one fumbling at his door. He thought day bad broken, and that it was the painter come

"I say, Reyburn, why don't you make a little more noise?"

In answer to this sarcastic query there came a shidden roush of feet through the empty house, the sounds disappearing in the distance. Ar. Boyd again jumped out of bed, realizing that his burglars were still at work, fondled his trusty pistol and went out to look for the robbers. No trace of them could be found.

Once mole Mr. Boyd slept—this time until morning. When he dressed and passed down stairs he found that the burglars had got even with him for his troublesome wagefulness dering the night. Five buckets of fresh paint of different colors had been emptied over the walls and ceiling of the unfinished Boyd house. Into all the keyholes in the place varnish had been poured, completely clogding them. A number of locks not yet fitted to the doors were thrown into the sink. All these things angered Mr. Boyd, and he came into town and reported the case to the police. He states that he will keep yight in his unfinished but elaborately paliticed and varnished residence from now on, and that if a burglar shows up there on, and that if a burgiar shows up there again it is woe to the burgiar. The same gang has been operating in Maplewood for some time past, it is believed.

The School Board's Enormous Appropriation for Repairs.

THE SPECIAL EXAMINING COMMITTEE SUBMITS ITS REPORT.

Supt. Singleton Charged With Not Examining Work, the Bills for Which He Was to Certify To-Careful Review of the School Board's Finances-Rec ommendations of the Committee.

The report of the Examining Committee of the School Board, which was appointed on Aug. 9 last by President Bartholdt, has been prepared, and will be submitted to the board at its next meeting.

The committee was composed of Morris J. Chairman; Capt. Hequembourg and Jack P. Richardson. They began their labors of examining the books and accounts of the board on Sept. 15.

The total cash on hand July 1, 1891, was $311,903.74. Since then there was received $1,560,180.63. The total expenditures of the board was aring the year amounted to $1,630,656.57, leaving a total cash on hand July 1, 1892, of $241,427.80. This balance stands to the credit of the general fund, permanent fund and the building fund, and also to the new high school fund and some minor accounts. The receipts were $1,007.418.88 from taxes levied for school purposes; $109,114.36 from the State school fund and $278,711.45 from sales of real estate of the board. Of the ex-penditures $777,325.60 was paid for teachers' salaries, $206,030 was paid on the contract $344,900 for the new Board of Education salaries, 520,030 was paid on the contract of 544,900 for the new Board of Education building; $27,000 on the new High School building; $187,083.95 was paid for the erection of other new school buildings, $187,081.95 was paid and 520,819.15 to architects employed for special work. Eight new buildings, with a seating capacity of 2,000 scholars, were erected during the year. The committee examined 2,163 vouchers with bills attached and found them all properly audited and entered in the books.

BILLS IMPROPERLY MADE OUT.

The old evil of bills not being made out properly by parties having claims against the Board still exists and the committee recommends that hereafter all these bills should be rejected by the auditing officer unless they specify the price of each and every article charged for. The committee also finds fault with the manner in which many of the bills were certified to, the certificates not being filled out by the proper officer in many instances. This was the case with the Superintendent of repairs, who falled to comply with the direction of the officer in many instances. This was the case with the superintendent of repairs, who falled to comply with the direction of the Building Committee. The party who examines and approves the bill should also inspect the work done and see that it is all right. This has been neglected, and the committee recommends that the requirements in this respect hereafter be strictly enforced. The Auditor be strictly enforced. The Auditor be strictly enforced. The Auditor of the Building Committee whereas in the natural order of things they should come from the Building Committee whereas in the natural order of things they should come from the Building Committee to the Auditor and thence to the Auditing Committee.

Mr. Player in addition to being Secretary and Treasurer is also Secretary of the Ways and Means Committee and of the Lands and leases. The books of the Auditor were also found to be properly kept. The rent rolls in his possession and also the accounts pertaining to them were correct. MR. PLAYER'S ACCOUNTS.

ing to them were correct.

The system in use in the supply department under charge of Mr. William Bryan was found to be first-class in every respect and carried out carefully with great minuitie of detail. The total cash received for books sold by principals during the year was $3,904.51.

$31,994.51.

In the office of H. Clay Sexton, balliff of the board, matters were found to be satisfactorily conducted and not more than $100 was outstanding for uncollectible rent bills.

In the Superintendent of Construction and Repairs Department, Mr. B. R. Singleton's office, a considerable improvement in the methods of the office over last year was noted.

methods of the office over last year was noted.

NEW BUILDINGS.

The new buildings erected during the year were the Ames, four rooms; Bryan Hill, six rooms; Jefferson Kindergarten extension, two rooms; Adams, eight rooms, and Marquette, twelve rooms. The contract price of the new high school is $55,945.20 and the building is to be completed by sept. 4, 1938.

The architect's fees last year amounted to $20,819.15, which is in excess of that of the previous year, when the total amount paid was $16,599.47.

For the year ending June 80, 1890, $50,000 was appropriated for repairs, and $50,094.76 expended. In 1894 $70,000 was appropriated and $71,634.03 spent, and in the last year $55,000 was appropriated and $122,417.76

For the year ending June 30, 1890, $50,009 was appropriated for repairs, and $50,094.76 expended. In 1894 $70,000 was appropriated and $12,417.76 was expended. In commenting on this the committee states that in October, 1891, the Examining Committee called the Superintendent of Repairs, Mr. Singleton, before it and asked why so much money had been spent in repairs for that year.

He said that the buildings had been so well repaired that he saw no reason why $1,000 per month, or $8,000 for the balance of the year, should not cover all the expenses which would be incurred for repairs. "As the figures show, that $67,417.75 was expended for repairs subsequent to that time during the remainder of the fiscal year, the school buildings must have been in exceptionally good condition of repair on the 30th of June, 1892. The matter of these excessive expenditures above the amounts originally appropriated is one with which your honorable body is entirely competent to deal, and we do not undertake to advise you in the premises." There has also been a large increase in the repair force of the Building Department. In June, 1892, the total salaries amounted to $3,559.45 per month—whereas six months prior to that the pay-roll was only $1,978.35.

The committee recommends that at the commencement of each fiscal year the board advertise for bids for all materials expected to be used in repairs during the year. A great saving could thus be effected. The materials expected to be used in repairs during the year. A great saving could thus be defected. The materials expected to be used in repairs during the year. A great saving could thus be effected. The materials expected to be used in repairs during the year. A great saving could thus be effected. The materials expected to be used in repairs during the report thank the officers of the board for the assistance given them in making and preparing the report.

DO LIARS ALWAYS YAWN!

A Peculiar Trait That Seems to Need a Little Clear Explanation.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal. From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

A few evenings ago half a dozen men were sitting out in front of the Capital Hotel discussing various topics, when Judge Yost of the Supreme Court in telling an anecdote of a trial remarked that the witness yawned and he knew he was lying.

"How did you know?" was asked.

"Well, sir. I have seen witnesses lie and not yawn, but I never knew one to yawn that he was not telling a lie."

Judge Sims, the member of the Legislature from Trigg, remarked: "Yes, I always know

Judge Sims, the member of the Leavis from Trigg, remarked: "Yes, I always know a witness is lying when he yawns."
Senator Dave Smith said: "It is almost invariably the case."
Judge Wall, the Senator from Mason, came up and corroborated the statements of the others, and just then Judge Brent of the Superior Court joined the group. "Yes," he others, and just then Judge Brent of the su-perior Court joined the group. "Yes," he chimed in, "when a witness yawns he is tell-ing a lie and he knows it." Several other lawyers were appealed to and all bore out the statements made. None, however, could explain the phenomenon. Judge Yost was the only one who had a theory, and that was that when a fellow was swearing to a lie he could not face the music, and his embarrassment found expression in yawns.

Here is a pointer to the legal fraternity of the State. Two of the Judges of the Superior. Court are committed and all that is necessary to impeach the evidence of a witness in their minds is to show that while giving it he yawned. The parenthetical yawn may be occasionally interspersed with effect in evidence submitted to them.

SUSPECT A SCHEME.

Democratic Leaders Worked Up Over the Negro Registration.

INVESTIGATING COMMITTEES BEING FORMED TO FERRET OUT FRAUDS.

Twelfth District Republicans Find Candidate to Run Against Cobb-Col. Stone on the Proposed Joint Debate in Clark County - Leverett Leonard's Brother Supporting Stone.

lay when several of the party leaders came down town from the Recorder of Voters' office and announced that their registration was running behind even the smallest estimates that had been made. The Fourteenth Ward was specially conspicuous by the small registration. It is a large ward and the people who live in it rent their houses so naturally there ought to be a large numer of registration transfers. Yet there have not been. On the contrary the undle of cards showing the transfers is surprisingly small. That means that a arge number of voters in the ward will lose their votes unless they are brought to the Recorder's Office this week.

The alarm of the Democrats was intensified by a story brought down from the Recorder's office that the Republicans had stopped registering their negro voters in small numbers and intended to rush them all in during the last three days of the registration so as to occupy the whole force of the Recorder's office and keep the white voters who may come there during that time from getting in their votes. Recorder James L. Carlisle was seen by a reporter to-day and asked if it was possible to carry out such a plan.

"If they want to do it, it's practicable enough," said he. "There's nothing to pre-vent it. I have been registering the negro voters at our window for convenience, but if they were to come in such number that they would fill the office and get ahead of the white voters I should, of course, have to open all the windows to them and register them as fast as they came. If such a thing as that happens it would teach a lesson to the voters who always wait till the very last minute to register."

"The fact is," said a Democrat who was watching the negro registration at the City Hall to-day, 'our men are paying too little attention to the fall election and too much to the spring election. That is the reason why they are not registering." WILL INVESTIGATE.

Dr. J. E. Chambers of the Twenty-fourth olitics for some years, has together with everal others formulated a plan to investitate the wholesale negro registration. Dr. Chambers is advocating the idea everywhere Chambers is advocating the idea everywhere and has already make arrangements to secure the co-operation of the Democratic clubs regardless of factions. The plan is to appoint a general investigating committee composed of representatives of every club in the Democratic ranks. This committee will watch the registration of negroes and in all cases where there is evidence of fraud it will be collected and turned over to the United States Grand Jury. Speaking to a Post-Dispatch representative this morning Dr. Chambers said:

speaking to a Post-Dispatch representative this morning Dr. Chambers said:

"Of course we do not consider that the generality of Republicans would countenance fraudulent registration, but we know that a number of them are now engaged in the work of registering voters who have no more right to vote here at the coming election than the Car of Russia. It is this class of Republicans that the Investigating Committee proposes to watch. The honest Republicans are doing nothing to prevent fraudulent registration and I believe it is the duty of the Democrats to handle the matter. It is certainly outrageous that a lot of negroes who have no right to vote can destroy the honest expression of as many Democrats who are entitled to express their voice and sentiment at the polls. We know that negroes are coming up here from the Southern cities and are getting so much per head for registering. An investigating committee can collect the evidence, and though the boaus voters may not be prevented from voting at the coming election, it can be used to prosecute them and discourage such methods in the future. scourage such methods in the future

Col. Stone on the Joint Debate

The Democratic and Republican State com nittees have not yet decided just what will be done in the matter of the proposed joint debate at Kahoka. ark County, a week from to-morrow. As known Stone and Warner are both illed to speak there at the same time on ne public square. Warner's appointment as made first by his State Committee, and the Democratic Committee having no knowl-dree of the engagement put Stone on the life for the time and place. edge of the engagement put stone on the bills for the time and place. Each committee is now looking to the other to take action. Up in Clark County bills have been issued by the county Republican Committee announcing a joint debate, and the people in that section are making extensive preparations for the occasion, it now looks as though a joint meeting cannot be avoided by either side. The State Democratic Committee has taken the position that as Maj. Warner received his appointment first propositions should come from his committee if a joint meeting is desired. Both committee in sist that the appointments shall be kept, neither caring to make a change.

Col. Stone was seen this morning by a Post-Dispatch representative, and when kept, neither caring to make a change.

Col. Stone was seen this morning by a Post-Dispatch representative, and when questioned said that he considered the matter in a delicate light and did not care to discuss it in a manner that might be interpreted in the light of braggadocio. "I recognize," he said that the matter belongs to the committees and should be settled by them. If it is desired that there be a joint discussion, or a series of joint discussion I will willingly fill any assignment that may be made for my opponent and myself.

Col. Stone, speaking on the subject, was very guarded to avoid saying anything that might be taken to mean to mean that he was boustful or defiant.

The Democratic Committee, it developed to-day, wants the debate and the leaders of the party generally favor the idea. The claim has been made that Stone would lose his temper and say something that ought to remain unsaid, but his friends who know him best say that such talk is ridiculous. At the Republican headquarters, Chairman Bothwell and Secretary Hall are anxiously watching and waiting for developments.

Leonard's Brother Supporting Stone. The crushing defeat administered the People's party at the State election reople's party at the State election in Georgia was a leading topic of conversation at the State Democratic Headquarters this morning. Maj. Salmon received some telegrams from Atlanta, showing Gov. Northen's great victory and these, he showed to Col. Stone. "One thing is certain, he said: "Missouri is such a well-governed State that the people will not give indirect help to the Republicans by voting for the third party ticket. The Democrats and Independents will be found election day voting for cleveland and stone everywhere throughout this big State. Their partyism I don't believe will make much of a showing in the coming contest."

While the crowd in the committee rooms were discussing the Georgia result "Farmer" Dick Danton came in with Charles C. Leonard of Cooper County. He is a brother of Leverett Leonard, the People's party candidate for Governor, but unlike his older brother, is a staunch Democrat. When he was asked for an expression he said: "The people of Georgia have expressed themselves in no uncertain way, and it looks fike the third party is going to pieces. It was indeed a crushing defeat for the Populists."

Une of the visitors then asked Mr. Leonard what he thought of the said: "Don't worry over it, old chap, your horrible secret is said with me." Georgia was a leading topic

John A. Talty is making a strong canvass for the Republican nomination for Circuit Attorney, and to-day his fridads say his chances of success in Saturday's convention are as good if not better than Assistant Circuit Attorney Zachritz, who seems to think he has a claim on the nomination. The contest for the office will be a lively one and it may take several ballots to decide it. Frank E. Ritchey, now on the People's ticket for Appellate Judge, is also announced as an applicant.

To-night the Nineteenth Ward Democracy is expected to turn out in large numbers and crowd Ed Butler's wigwam at Twenty-third and Chestnut streets. Col. Stone has agreed to attend and deliver an address. State Treasurer Lon V. Stephens will also speak on the financial condition of the State and the Democratic record in reducing the indebtedness. Harry A. Guinsburg will also speak.

THOUSANDS THERE.

The Usual Great Thursday Crowd Visits the Fair.

EVERY DEPARTMENT ON THE GROUNDS THRONGED WITH SIGHT-SEERS.

People Were There Waiting for the Gates to Open in the Morning-Residents of the City Go Out in the Afternoon-Splendid Attractions in the Amphi-

The theory of an old English poet that man has private amity with winds and moons and tides may explain the superb weather prevalling this Fair week; at least it justifies the aggestion that a private but very efficient understanding exists between the Fair Association and the weather authorities.

This is the "big Thursday" at the Fair.

In accordance with immemorial custom, and by virtue of the Mayor's proclamation, It is a civil holiday. The courts and public offices are therefore closed and the municipal employes all went out othe Fair Grounds to enjoy a holiday that no one begrudges. The Merchants' Exchange took a vacation. In nearly all lines of trade, where it could be permitted, the force was dismissed at moon and the doors were locked, and in others just enough help was retained to attend to the little trade and the others were bidden to go and have a good time. As a consequence down-town St. Louis has a deserted look this afternoon, while the Fair Ground is a scene of indescribable life and interest.

COMMENCED GOING EARLY. A long string of people awaited the opening of each gate at the grounds this morning, and a steady and continuous stream began to pour in when the grounds were opened. As this forenoon advanced, the crowds in creased, and at the main entrances there was such a congestion that admission was slow and difficult. Upon entering the visitors distributed themselves over the great inclosure, so that the impression of a great crowd was dissipated. The conviction or multitudes returned, however, when, after encountering compact throngs in every department, one went into the great amplitheater as noon approached, only to find the immense structure closely filled with interested sightseers. Old attendants of the Fair said that to losely filled with interested sightseers. Id attendants of the Fair said that to ay's attendance bid fair to be equal that of any "Big Thursday" when ly the ordinary attractions of the Fair ere presented. It was feared that the andonment of the usual fall trotting meetr of the association might reduce the attance, but there are no traces of its having the forenoon crowds.

the had that effect.
The forenoon crowds came chiefly from the country. City people have lately got into the inabit of not turning out until the afternoon. There are several reasons for this. In the old horse car regime going to the bair was the task of a long and avery wearlsome day. Now, with rapid transit, all is changed, and city folks can 'do'' the exhibition in half the time that was required formally, and with infinitely less fatique and more enjoyment. And so, now-a-days, the Fair is never seen in its greatest brilliancy until quite late in the afterneon. are in attendance to-day is a the afternoon.

How many are in attendance to-day is a matter at this hour of conjecture, but it will probably be in the neighborhood of 100,000.

IN THE AMPHITHEATER.

All was animation in every part of the grounds, but the spectacle afforded by the simplificator this forenoon was striking and interesting. Roadjeers in harness contested for distinction, and there was the largest ring of stock that any day this week has produced. As the 5-year stallion class was under review an exciting incident occurred. There were perhaps thirty competing horses, and one of them were seen to act strangely. The driver had evidently lost control of him. The steel broke and ran violently around the ring, and it was by mere luck that the rig did not coilide with others. The driver made an effort to climb from his sulky on to the horse's back, it being evidently his intention to with others. The driver made an emort to climb from his sulky on to the horse's back, it being evidently his intention to get hold of the horse's bridle, but before he could accomplish his purposes, and while partly in the sulky and partly out of it, one of the wheels collapsed and the vehicle was overfurned, and he was thrown forward to the ground directly under the horse's feet. It looked as though the unfortunate man would be trampled to death, for he was rolled over and over under the horse's hoofs and the weeked sulky, but finally he got clear, and then he got up and shook the dust off and ran to his horse, which had by that time been headed off. He said that he was not hurt any, but it was a narrow escape for the hoofs came down briskly on both sides of his head. He gave his name as E. C. Winchester of Bunker Hill, the horse was Klipatrick.

For to-morrow the usual specialities are announced, and with the fine weather now extremely probable, another enormous attendance may be expected.

ON THEIR MUSCLE.

Two Chicago Board of Trade Men Come to Blows.

Chicago, Thl., Oct. 6.—Two men widely known in commercial and political circles, Ex-Gongressman R. W. Dunham of Chicago and his former partner, Alexander Young of Milwaukee, came to blows in the Board of Trade corridor to-day. According to Mr. Duncan's statement there has been rather hard feeling between the men for some liftie time. This morning just before the opening of the board the two men met on the second floor of tha Board of Trade Building and angry words passed between them. As the discussion grew more heated they walked down the stairway to the ground floor. Young had reached the foot of the stairway to the ground floor. Young had reached the foot of the stairway to the ground floor. Young had reached the foot of the stairway to the ground floor. Young had reached the foot of the stairway to the ground floor. DELINQUENT CORPORATIONS.

Missouri Eusiness Firms That Have

Failed to Comply With the Law. JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 6 .- Secretary of State Lesueur to-day certified to the various State's attorneys the lists of corporations failing to comply with the laws enacted at the last regular session of the Thirty-sixth General ssembly requiring them to make an annual report of their business and to make what is known as the anti-pool and trust affidavit. The law requires these papers to be filed in the office of the Secretary, and in default of which the Secretary is required to give a list of the delinquents to the proper officer for prosecution. The penalty for neglect or refusal to make these imports is a fine and forfeiture of corporate existence.

SPRINKLING MEN TO SUE.

They Are Unwilling to Pay for All the Broken Water Plugs.

The city will shortly have to fight a suit of the sprinklers in the courts. They have com-bined and have employed Leverett Bell and George W. Lubke as their Jawvers. It is the custom in the Water De. Crab Apples—Receipts were larger and there was more choice fruit arriving, which caused an easier feeling and lower prices. We quote: Choice and fancy, $2.50#2.75; fair, $1.50#2; poor 75c#81 per bbl. Crab Apples—Pror was more offering. Deand George W. Lubke as their lawyers. It is the custom in the Water Department for the inspector to charge the cost of repairing a broken water plug to the sprinkler in whose district it is. It is taken for granted that the driver of the sprinkling wayon broke the plug. At any rate it is the easiest and in fact the only way in which the city can get back its money for repairing the plug, the law providing that when the strinklers are responsible for the damage the cost of repair can be held out of their pay. So the Water Department reports the deduction to the Clty Auditor, and when the sprinkler as much as a hundred doilars sometimes. He may complain, but it does him no good.

H. C. Pohlman, one of the richest of the sprinkling contractors, has had stormy scenes with every official connected with the Board of Public Improvements down, and has been threatening to see the City for a return of the Board of Public Improvements down, and has been threatening to see the City for a return of the Board of Public Improvements down, and has been threatening to see the City for a return of the Board of Public Improvements down, and has been threatening to see the City for a return of the Board of Public Improvements down. Commenced. One contractor after another has come to his way of thinking, and they have now decided to make up as a contractor after another has come to his way of thinking, and they have now decided to make up as a contractor after another has come to his way of thinking, and they have now decided to make up as a contractor after another has come to his way of thinking, and they have now decided to make up as a contractor after another has come to his way of thinking, and they have now decided to make up as a contractor after another has come to his way of thinking, and they have now decided to make up as a contractor after another has come to his way of thinking, and they have now decided to make up as a contractor after another has come to his way of thinking, and they are the contractor after another money he has pald in ever since the season commenced. One contractor after another has come to his way of thinking, and they have now decided to make up a purse and test the power of the city to muict them. If they win the suit-the city will have to pay back several thousand dollars already deducted, and the Water Department will have to stand the cost of repairing the plugs in the future, which is considerably over $1,000 a year.

Carondelet Jottings.

John Hurst, aged 12 years, residing on O'Reilly avenue, while scuffling with a boot-black in the city yesterday was struck on the arm with the latter's "kit," breaking the arm near the eibow. The boy had the arm dressed at Dr. B. Bribach's office.

John Smith was arrested this morning by Poilce Sergeant Charles Neum and Officer Hanifan on general principles.

Mrs. Helena Lay and Mr. J. H. Blerman were united in wedlock last evening. To colebrate the event their friends gathered in front of the house and commenced to charlvari them with tin cans, etc. Officer Pat Collins hove in sight and started to disperse the crowd. The happy groom, however, invited them in and treated them royally.

Cattle—The cattle market this morning was in a better condition than it has been any time this week. Very many time that week the series were disposed of at $5.55 per 100 bs. These cattle were Poiled Angus and the best that have been seen at this market for months. They were the property of Maj. J. R. Heoler of Vermont, Mo. The price paid for these steers fully demonstrates the fact that choice cattle when offered at this market will bring even more money than quotations would indicate. A few other bunches of good cattle were also on sais, but the bulk, as it has been in the past, could not be graded good quality. Country Banks and Estates will find these investments very desirable for their reserve or surplus funds.

Statements will be furnished and information cheerfully given upon application at the office of JAMES CAMPBELL.

Autumnal Festivities Association has made elaborate arrangements for accommodating visitors who are unable to secure rooms at the hotels. The Hotel and Boarding Bureau, at 821 Pine street, has a complete register of houses in which rooms or board can be secured. No houses are registered unless the terms are reasonable, and a messenger is sent with guests to the houses to which they are assigned, so as to prevent difficulty. Col. M. F. Doud and a large clerical force worked until the small hours of the morning assigning visitors to rooms, and two dozen messenger boys were kept busy acting as guides. It is suggested that any stranger finding difficulty in securing accommodation ask a policeman or citizen to direct him to 821 Pine street, where he will be assisted at once. No charge is allowed to be made at the Bureau, which is maintained at the expense of the Festivities Association. Fifty thousand more visitors can be easily accommodated to night, and no one need sit up all night or tire himself hunting for quarters. has a complete register of

MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

Supposed Suicide of Nathaniel Pearson

PRAIRIE GROVE, Ark., Oct. 6 .- Yesterday morning about sunrise the dead body of Nathaniel Pearson, son of Bart Pearson, near Strickler, about twelve miles southeast of this place, was found in the corn crib. He of a tall man wearing a luxuriant had been to a party the night before and had growth of black whiskers, was extended some words with a young fellow there and and caught the visitor under the chin. A suk left his horse, returning home on toot. His father discovered him and, thinking he was asleep, undertook to awaken him, and to his horror found the young man was dead. A revolver was iying by his side and it is thought he might have committed suicide. The inquest was being held last night, but no news of the verdict has reached this place. The family are overcome with grief. ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1, 1892,

Mr. A. R. Plank, Manager: DEAR SIR-For some weeks I have tested the Electropoise in my case and I am delighted with the result. My case was obstinate nervous prostration, indigestion, insomnia, etc., rendering me unfit for duty for more than three years. So far the Electropoise has done more for me than all other treatments. Chronic subjects need not hesitate in giving this wonderful little instrument a trial as I did I am gratefully yours, G. W. McCoole,

EXCITING SCENE IN FRONT OF THE PHY-SICIAN'S RESIDENCE

Door With a Revolver, Beats Him Up and Then Drags H'm Into the House -No Explanations of the Encounter

Between 12 and 1 o'clock yesterday a neatly dressed young man, apparently 28 years of age, alighted from a street car at 3600 Laclede avenue, and after a searching look up and down the avenue, walked rapidly west to Cabanne street, where he crossed to the north side, and after walking back up Laclede avenue a few steps, he halted in front of No. 3693. Paying no heed to the passers-by he hurrled up the steps and pushed the electric bell. The result was electrical, for the door flew open and an ugly looking revolver, clenched in the hand tile went flying into the street; the stranger staggered and reeled up against the railing before he could realize what had happened. He was soon aware that the party expected to open the door failed to respond, but on the other hand, it was the head of the household, and he realized that e was in the strong arms of Dr. A. Elseman. After hurriedly taking in the situation, he came to the conclusion that he would have to with Col. Gilmore fight his way out or jump to the ground, and he chose the former. For about ten minutes there was a lively sparring match as soon as we effect a permanent organization." fight his way out or jump to the ground, on the little front porch of the wiry doctor, who struck his visitor blow after blow over the head with the butt end of his revolver. Felling his victim to the floor, he opened the front door and huried him into the hallway, closing the door. Such was the scene witnessed by a dozen persons who happened to be passing by.

nessed by a dozen persons who happened to be passing by.

NO EXPLANATION.

A POST-DISPATCH reporter called at Dr. Elseman's residence yesterday alternoon and was met at the door by a woman who represented herself as the family servant. When the motive of the reporter's visit was made known she closed the door with the remark that she did not know anything about it, and would not say anything in regard to it if she did know. The door was once more opened by a lady apparently 20 years of age, who, after some hesitation, admitted that the doctor had had a difficulty with some gentleman, but that she was in the rear of the building and knew none of the particulars. The employes of the drug store on the corner adjoining the doctor's house, and the next-door neighbors, had heard of the difficulty, but refused to give any information relative to the personal encounter between the Laclede avenue specialist and the mysterious stranger.

of the difficulty, but refused to give any information relative to the personal encounter between the Laclede avenue specialist and the mysterious stranger.

A COLORED MAN'S STRANGE STORY.

A negro, giving his name as Andy Bunn, was engazed in shoveling coal in the cellar of the house next door, and was within five feet of the little front porch where the combat was had. He saw the stranger walk up on the porch and ring the bell, and was eyeing him when the doctor's mighty right came in contact with the beardless boy's face. "I did now what to make of it," said Brown, "and I watched the fight with considerable interest, and was somewhat surprised to see the doctor puil the man into the house after giving him a severe thrashing. I heard no noise after the two had entered the house, and never saw either one of the parties again until the doctor walked hurricely out of his front door about 2:30 and caught a cab down town, but the man he beat up was not seen again by me and I never finished my work until nearly 5 o'clock. If he left the house before that time he went out the back way." A setreh was made for the doctor to ascertain the cause of the trouble and to learn what had become of the stranger who had met with such a cool reception at his hands earlier in the day. A call was made at his residence an hour later, and the front parlor was lighted up and some one was rendering one of Bethoven's selections on a plano when the reporter rang the bell. The music ceased and the performer, after peering through the bilinds at the reporter, turned out the lights and it was quiet without and dark within. Another attempt was made later on to see the fighting doctor, but without avail.

MAY NOT MAKE THE TOUR.

Gilmore Will Not Assume Any Financial Responsibility For the Band. Mrs. Gilmore, the widow of the late P. S. Gilmore, the great bandmaster, has writte Sergt. result of a request made on Mrs. Gilmore to advance the necessary funds to defray the traveling expenses of the band on the tour of the principal cities which had been outlined by Col. Gilmore to take place at the close of the Exposition season. Mrs. Gilmore is willing that the band should be continued under the name of the Gilmore Band, but she is disincilined to assume any financial liabilities in connection with it. Manager Laine, who was Col. Gilmore's advance agent, is expected here shortly when some definite steps will be taken towards effecting a permanent organization of the band.

Sergi. Freudenvoll when seen this morning said that matters were in an unsettled state at present, and it was uncertain just what the band would do or where it would go at the close of the Exposition season.

"We would like to make the tour originally planned by Col. Gilmore," he continued, but it takes considerable money to run an organization as large as our band, and at present I see no way out of the difficulty unless we organize a kind of stock company among ourselves and put up the necessary money to defray traveling expenses, etc. The band will not disband, of this I can assure the public. There is no disaffection among the members, and the general desire is to have the organization continued under the name of the Gilmore Band. As soon as Mr. Laine comes we will get together and make some final arrangements, though I can't say definitely that we will make the trip to the principal cities."

"What is your position now relative to the band and the Exposition."

"I was simply elected by them as their leader and the Exposition management recognizes me as their financial agent. They pay me the full amount coming to the band.

gerous competitor this morning for the nex convention. Detroit is still in the first rank and has the support of Cleveland and many of the Eastern cities. The Northwestern of the Eastern cities. The Northwestern combination is working hard for St. Paul, but do not seem to be making many converts. For President of the association Treasurer W. B. These two questions will be settled this afternoon before adjournment. The unit rule has been adopted by most of the delegations. The Milwaukee delegates with a few from Nashville, St. Louis, Louisville, Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth are arranging for a trip East from Buffalo after the convention closes. They will go by special train through New York State, stopping at all principal cities, and then to Boston. From that city they will go along the coast, taking in New Haven, Providence, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Richmond and back to Pittsburg. It is expected that the trip will take about two weeks and that over one hundred delegates will participate. It was a little after 10 o'clock when the delegates assembled for this morning's session. There was a change in the programme. Ex-Gov. Hubbard of Texas, who was to have read a paper on "Our Changed Commercial Relations," had found it impossible to attend and his place was filled by R. S. S. Myers, editor of the Chicago Real Estate and Building Journal, who read a paper on "Allen Land Law Legislation," and was followed by Hon. A. S. Collarm of Nashville, with a paper on "Urban Realty Legislation."

What the People of the Fashionable World Are Doing.

BRIDES AND GROOMS ARE NUMEROUS IN THE CITY JUST NOW.

Weddings to Take Place During October-Entertainments Given Here in Honor of Judge and Mrs. Horace R. Buck of Montana-The Methudy-Dittmer Nuptials-Happenings in Society. brides and grooms. One stumbles over them everywhere. In the stores they are is ineffably bored and jealous of the ribbons and laces which are robbing him of so much of her thought and attention. At the Exposition they are strolling arm in arm through the naves, both of them interested perhaps in the housekeeping outfits. In the Art Gallery they are somewhat interested n the pictures, but in the Music Hall they are undoubtedly interested in each other, as they sit close to each other and let the music thoughts and whispers. To-day they are all out at the fair, the country brides and grooms inspecting the horses and cows and discovered by the fair the country brides and grooms inspecting the horses and cows and their friends after Nov. 1 at 1721 Mississippi serve as an accompaniment to their calves and poultry, and dairy products and dellies and pickles and preserves, for these are the things they will soon be interested in in their own snug country homes. No wonder that St. Louis at "Exposition" and "Fair"

times is the Mecca toward which all newly wedded couples turn their footsteps. Judge and Mrs. Horace R. Buck of Mon tana, who have been visiting his mother, Mrs. Maria I. Johnson, have been the recipients of many hospitable courtesies since their arrival in the city. A very handsome dinner party was given them by his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Barnet. Miss Mollie Nicholls, daughter of Mr. William Nicholls of West Pine street, gave a beautiful luncheon in honor of Mrs. Buck, at which there were twelve guests. On Tuesday Mrs. James Scullin gave a delightful luncheon in compliment to her aunt, Mrs. Buck, at which there were twelve guests.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Dittmer of 1721 Mississipp avenue was married last evening to Mr Joseph P. Methudy of this city. At 8 o'clock wedding party reached the Trinity Lutheran Church, on Eighth street and Lafayette avenue. The bride entered the church walking with her father and the groom with the bride's mother, followed by the maid of honor, the groom's best man and the other attendants. The isles of the church were festooned with gar nds of green and the altar decked with e church the organist played Lohengrin's bridal party walked out to the strains of 'Mendelsohn's Wedding March.' The bride was gowned in a lovely robe of cream white fafile cut princess, ending in a long train, the bottom of the front skirt, trimmed in a wide ruffle of slik lace, edged about the top with a crystal passamentarie, the long sleeves being trimmed with high shoulder puffs of the same lace and finished by rows of the crystal passamentarie, the long sleeves being trimmed with high shoulder puffs of the same material of which the gown was composed.

The two bridemaids, Misses Josephine Methudy, a cousin of the groom, and Irene Stout, wore gowns of cream white silk made with demi-train and low-cut corsage. One carried bink American groom, and Irene Stout, wore gowns of cream white silk made with demi-train and low-cut corsage. One carried pink American beauties and the other a bouquet of tea roses. The groom's best man was Mr. Charles Lihon, and the groomsmen were Dr. H. L. Niebert and Dr. M. E. Haase. The ushers were Messrs. Robert J. Torrance, De Lacy Chandler, Bert Eddy and Lincoin Stearns. Before leaving the residence of the bride for the ceremony at the church the bridal party had supper, after a new custom in the Last, and after the ceremony there was a large reception at the residence of the bride from 8:30 to 10 o'clock. Mrs. R. Dittmer, the mother of the bride, wore a black gros grain silk, and carried La France roses and diamonds. Mrs. Mary A. Methudy of New York, mother of the groom, wore a black silk and garniture of duchesse lace. Miss May Johnston of New Orleans, who is a guest of the bride, wore a pretty costume of pearl gray silk henrietta cloth, with a bodice of gray and pink striped novelty silk, the round neck trimmed with knois of gray and pink veivet, and butterfly bows of same upon the shoulders.

Southwest corner Eleventh and Olive sts Charges Against Dr. Newland Dismissed. After hearing all the affidavits produced before them yesterday afternoon the State Board of Health refused to take any action against the Newland College of Midwifery. Dr. L. G. Tandy had affidavits of three of the pupils of the institute to the effect that no examinations were required to obtain a diploma. Dr. Newland had a number of counter affidavits in which these statements were depleted.

counter amdavits in which these statements were denied.
The board considered the evidence insufficient and so dismissed the charges without prejudice to the institution.
In regard to the statement made by Dr. Newland that the charges against the institution were due to the fact that Dr. Tandy was a nephew of Dr. Atkinson, Secretary of the State Board of Health, which statement Dr. Atkinson branded as a lie, Dr. Newland told him he made it on the authority of Dr. Mack, the personal friend of Dr. Tandy, who was Mack's authority.

When Dr. Tandy told Dr. Newland he would "smash his face," the latter waved him of with the remark that he wanted to have nothing to do with him.

A NIGHT OF INTEREST.

The Stationery Engineers Visit the Ex This Evening-Aisle Notes.

There are several thousand stationary en eers in the city, and two or three hundred of them are inventors. Their business suggests and even obliges invention sometimes. Just now most of them are busy with smoke preventing devices, and every business man is interested in these more or less. The space of the stationary engineers is full of these devices, all successful to a greater or less degree. Hitherto they have been seen only by those who were specially interested in the subject, and went there to see them. To night this ex-hibit will be one of the centers of attraction, as this is the evening set aside as "Station-ary Engineers' Night." The engineers will all attend with their wives and families.

The influence of the Art Gallery on visitors is a very peculiar thing. A certain number of people always enter the rooms where the pletures are hung with hat in hand. Most of those who come walk in from a promenade through the alsels or from the Music Hall, hats on. They move about among the pletures for a while and presently become impressed by the quiet, the low tones, the bareheaded art worshippers. Their loud voices are moderated and hats come off one by one. The man with squeaking shoes becomes painfully conscious of their presence, and either sits down or leaves the gallery. The restraint people impose on themselves disappears as soon as they get from the paintings to the photographs. Somehow, one does not regard a collection of photographs as worthy of the respectful attention to be given to a picture, although the picture may be very bad and the photographs very good.

"The "Pinch of Snuft," by Kauffman, and the "Cigarette Smoker" are two pictures that are discussed with animation by tobacco users. The first represents a Bavarian taking snuft after the manner of his country, knocking out a little of the paste from the bottle on the hollow of the upper side of the hand between the thumb and first finger, and then sinearing tupon one nostril after another. It is a typical skstch and worthy of study. The cigarette smoker one hears criticised by the cigarette users who stop before it. They say that the method of the smoker is too feminine. Artists explain this by saying that the artist probabily had his wife posing for the picture.

COALING STATIONS.

The Needs of the United States Shown by a Recent Publication.

Washington, Oct. 6.—The Bureau of Naval Intelligence has been for some months preparing a book scon to be issued to the service which will be invaluable both to the merwhich will be invaluable both to the merchant marine and the navies of the world. The book will state in detail the localities of coaling stations of different governments, ship yards, repair stations and docks, the ship yards, repair stations and docks, the coal capacity of the stations, quality of coal and other matters relating to the coal supply of vessels bound on long voyages. The ply of vessels bound on long voyages. The book will show conclusively that in this respect the United States is far worse off than any other country pretending to be a poval.

any other country pretending to be a naval power, possessing as it does only three foreign coaling stations, namely in La Pas, Mexico; samoa and Honolulu.

Great Hritain has important stations in all her possessions, in many places where coal can be landed from Eng and for the use of her vessels of war as well as her merchant marine. All of her stations are strongly fortified and garrisoned, as she appreciates the fact that should her coal supply be selzed in war times a most serious blow would be dealt herinavy and commerce. In such case it would be impossible for her to get coal elsewhere as all nations would declare it contraband and refuse to supply belligerent vessels. It will be remembered that during the chase of the chilian ship, Itata, by the Charleston, Mexico declined to allow the warship Esmeralda, which was acting as the Itata's consort, to coal in that country, and the Esmeralda consequently had to remain in Mexican waters until after the Itata was surrendered to the Charleston in Chili. The book will further show that should the United States become involved in war with a foreign power there would practically be no foreign. will further show that should the United States become involved in war with a foreign power there would practically be no foreign ports outside of her three stations, ail of which are on the Pacific Ocean, where she could hope to get coal. Some years ago a tract of land was purchased from Venezuela and a small lot of coal was landed there, but It was soon stolen by the natives, and no fur-ther effort was made to land coal there.

GOING DOWN THE HILL.

Old Age Creeping on Shows Itself in Lack-Lustre Eyes and Trembling Hands-Many Who Are Old in Years Are Vigorous and Healthy-How Such a Condition May Be Encompassed By All.

Encompassed By All.

How many elderly men and women we see who plainly show they are "going down the bill." The trembling hand, the uncertain step, the lack of brightness in the eye, the shrunken feature", all indicate that life is not at high tide, that the strength and vital forces are not what they once were, and, in fact, that they are going down the bill. This, of course, is to be expected, for when one reaches later years physical troubles are sure to come, but how many elderly people we see are healthy, happy and comparatively vigorous. They always seem cheerful, bright, contented. Why should not all be equally fortunate? It certainly is possible. Every elderly man and woman needs to gently assist nature, all the while needs to take some pure stimulant regularly. Every doctor in the land admits this, and its common sense must be manifest to all. It should not be understood, however, that any ordinary stimulant would be recommended. It must be something pure, powerful, health-giving and strength-imparting. Such a stimulant can be found only in Duffy's Pure Mail Whiskey. It is the only medicinal whiskey in the market. Its wonderful popularity is due entirely to its power and what it has accomplished. Any elderly man or woman through its use may certainly preserve the health, and may reasonably expect to prolong the life. Do not be induced, however, to try any inferior article or any which the druggist or grocer may seek to put in its place. There is nothing which can accomplish the same object.

Mrs. Basil Duke, formerly of this city, is visiting her son at 2117 Olive street. Miss Emma lich is visiting in this city be-fore leaving to complete her art studies. These little pleasantries caused terror in the Bennett household, and the occurrences were the talk of the town. Mrs. Hodgdon was accused of being the author of the missives, but she indignantly dealed the charge, and offered such a good allbi that the police were nonplussed. Still the letters continued to come and the house was bombarded just the same. There was a full during the spring and summer, but a few days ago Mr. Hennett found another letter in front of his door when he went out in the morning. It was written in the same hand as were the other letters, but the body of the letter was fliggible.

Mr. Bennett could only read the words
"Mr. dear Lennie." He translated the word
"cill" to mean "kill," and inferred that it was another threat against his life, but he couldn't read it. A neighbor was consuited, but he, too, was unable to decipher the missive.

Mrs. Bennett joined her husband and neighbor and asked what they were talking about. Mr. Bennett told her that he had received another letter. "Can't you rend it?" his wife inquired. Mr. Bennett said he could not, and said that the ne gibor was unable to read it.

Mrs. Bennett took the letter and read it without hesitation. Her husband was startled by the thought which was suggested by the neighbor's significant wink. The letter was absolutely a senseless scrawl. It could not have been read so easily unless the person had a previous knowledge of the contents.

Mrs. Bennett saw the startled look on her usehand's and neighbor's faces, and asket Mrs. Bennett saw the Started Jook on her husband's and neighbor's faces, and asked what they were staring at. Then she asked if they thought she was insane, and continued: "I am perfectly willing to have my noddle examined."

The unshot of the matter is that Dr. McAllister, the family physician, says that Mrs. Bennett is insane, and the police claim that all the letters and threats were written by her. her.
Although the house and family were closely watched, she had managed to evade the police, and threw the stones that mystiflet the neighborhood. No suspicion has resteupon Mrs. Bennett until the present time Why her insanity should have taken such a turn is unexplainable.

The "Supremes" who had charge of the matter secured a magnificent site on Broad street, and planned a structure in the form of a sale, which they were to enter through the keyhole, while the interior was to be arranged much like the compartments in a burglar-proof vault. Before the plan was carried out came the ferelations which swept the business of the order into the hands of a receiver and the manipulators of its funds into a court of justice. Regotiations for the purchase of the building site are now being made with a prominent merchant.

THE SHARON CASE Strange Sequel to the Persecutions of Judge Pank Finelly Dismisses the Appeal and Settles the Controversy.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 6 .- After drag , the notorious Sharon case is finally set tled. Yesterday when the Supreme Court of the State was sitting Judge Bank handed down a decision dismissing the appeal that down a decision dismissing the appear to at had been taken from the judgment rendered by the late Judge McShafter, Aug. 4, 1890. The decision, which had been appealed from, was the granting of the prayer of the executors of the Sharon estate, that the so-called certificate of marriage between William Sharon and Sarah Akhea Hill be declared a forgery and that the representatives of the Sharon and Sarah Althea Hill be declared a forgery and that the representatives of the defendant be authorized to collect costs from the plaintiff. This action was based upon a decision that had previously been rendered by Judge Field of the United States Supreme Court reversing the opinion of Superior Judge Sullivan, virtually recognizing Sarah Althea as Sharon's wife.

I wish I hadn't bought that dress,
But now it's over, late to cry;
I needed it too, goodness knows,
With all the lows so say!
Each year our burden heavier grows,
And luck is worse each day.
Oh! don't you worry now, my dear,
Said patient Samuei Green,
Beiore your folks are landed here
The house shall be all clean.
I know a thing or two, and more,
I know the very man in town
Who'll hely, as oft he's done before,
A famuly whose helk is done.
He only asks his patrons this:

MAY MEET DIXON.

Billy Plimmer Likely to Face the Black Champion.

THE FIGHT WILL PROBABLY BE AR-RANGED AT 112 POUNDS.

Joe Goddard Sava Corbett Must Fight or Forfeit the Championship - Prof. Duffy's New Boxing Rules-Sullivan and Corbett as Histrionic Stars-Gossip From Turf. Ring and Diamond.

New York, Oct. 6 .- Tom O'Rourke, Manager of George Dixon, says that the colored champion will fight Billy Flimmer of England. The conditions under which Dixon will agree to meet the Englishman are that the men shall weigh in at 112 pounds at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of the fight; the fight to be for the bantam weight championship, a stake of $10,000 a side and a purse of $7,500. Plimmer says that if Dixon means business he will have to weigh 112 pounds at the ring side. Plimmer says that O'Roarke stated two days ago that Dixon could fight as well at 122 pounds as he could at 118. If he will agree to these conditions I will agree to make the match for $10,000.

GODDARD AFTER CORBETT. It is the intention of the Barrier champion, Joe Goddard, to bring about a meeting with Jim Corbett or get the championship by default. It will be just a month next Monday since Billy Madden, the Australian's manager, deposited $1,000 as a forfeit with a sporting paper here to bind a match with the champion for $10,000 a side and the best purse offered, to Oct. 11. Unless the Californian consents to arrange a fight on the above mentioned conditions Goddard will claim the championship and stand ready to defend the title against all comers. "According to all rules," said Madden, "a champion must be ready to defend his title when there is a necessity for that sort of thing. Goddard is the only man to challenge Corbett who has put up a substantial forfeit, and he demands that Corbett must pay some attention to his proposition or relinquish his hold on the championship." THE PUGILISTIC STARS.

John L. Sullivan is not an actor, if the opinion of New Yorkers can be relied upon. The ex-champion made his metropolitan debut at the Columbia Theater last Monday evening. The house was crowded to the ceiling, and several hundred of John's admirers were turned away from the gallery mirers were turned away from the gallery and told to call earlier some other night. John surprised the people who had come prepared to witness a repetition of the awkwardness and enervating effects of booze he was wont to exhibit in "Honest Hearts and Willing Hands." His whipping has made a new man of him. He is not unpraceful and possesses no little histronic talent. It is needless to say he was enthusiastically received.

On the same night Corbett made his debut

TOUNG MITCHELL AND ALECK GREGGAINS Young Mitchell has created quite a stir in pugilistic circles all over the country by allenging Aleck Greggains to fight in any of the pugilistic clubs at San Francisco Mitchell retired from the ring shortly after his fight with Reddy Gallagher, and just about the time that Greggains was coming to the front. He says it was his intention never to enter the ring again, but that Greggains has abused him so often that he has finally decided to challenge him. The match would no doubt create lively interest in puglistic circles all over America, especially, however, on the coast, and it would be a great drawing card for the club that could get it. It is not a certainty, however, for Mitchell has fixed the weight at the middle weight limit, 154 pounds, and Greggains would probably find it impossible to reduce himself to that. If, however, he can fight at that weight he match will be easily made, for all the local clubs would bid for it, says a San Francisco exchange. Mitchell has posted a forfeit for a $5,000 side bet.

Goddard, the Australian champion, recently offered to fight any man in the country, and as he has no prospects of a match, this should be a good opportunity to arrange one.

LOCAL PUGILISTIC GOSSIP. The much-talked of contest between Mike forfeit of $100 to bind a contest with Mooney

Mooney and Harry Sharp has come to a point of issue at last. The latter has posted his on the original proposition as published recently, which was to the effect that he, Mooney, would forfeit $250 if he did not knock out Sharp in five rounds with 2-ounce gloves in a 16-foot ring.

Mooney, would forfelt $250 if he did not knock out Sharp in five rounds with 2-ounce gloves in a l6-foot ring.

Mooney stated yesterday that he had been incorrectly reported in this respect. "I never authorized any such a challenge as that," said Mike, "but I do believe," said he, "that I can put Sharp out in ten rounds, I toid Sharp this on the street Monday, and at the same time informed him that I was not responsible for the statement that I could put him out in five rounds." Now Sharp says that Mooney did not go on record in this manner in the conversation they had Monday. "I met Mike Monday," said Sharp, "and asked him what truth there was in the statement that he was anxious to demonstrate his ability to put me out in five rounds. He admitted that he had made the talk and stood willing to stand by it. I will take oath to that effect. I am not looking for newspaper notoriety," said Sharp, "but as long as I have been dragged into this matter I do not want to be put in an unpleasant light before the public. All I desire to say is that I have accepted Mooney's proposition, which it must be remembered he admitted making to me, and have posted my forfeit to bind a match with him on his published terms.

As the matter now stands it is purely a bind a match with him on his published terms.

As the matter now stands it is purely a question of veracity between Mooney and Sharp. Mooney's proposition appeared in an afternoon paper and Sharp meeting him afterwards says he agreed to stand by what he was quoted as saying. Sharp then posted his forfeit to bind the match. Mooney has since discredited the newspaper story and says he did not acknowledge the credibility of Sharp. of Sharp.
Sharp is willing to face Mr. Mooney for five rounds. Now will the professor accept?

AMERICAN GLOVE CONTEST RULES. The wide difference of opinion regarding the interpretation of the Marquis of Queensberry rules has led Prof. John Duffy, the referee of the Sullivan-Corbett fight, to put referee of the Sullivan-Corbett fight, to put on paper his ideas of the rules that should govern a glove contest. He strongly opposes all such practices as "shouldering," "clinching," "clinching," "clinching," and in fact all the different tactics of in-fighting. Prof. Duffy's long experience eminently fits him for the task. His code, which he calls the "American glove contest knew the deals the "American glove contest knew the best financial showing this well make the best financial showing this year in the history of the club.

shall be deemed foul fighting, just as "heeling" or "back-heeling."

4. It shall be deemed a "foul" if one contestant strikes another below the belt or while the latter is down. A man is to be considered down when he has one knee on the floor or is lying on the ropes with his feet off the floor. It shall be optional with the referee to disqualify a boxer for the first or second violation of this rule.

5. When a man is down his opponent shall not be allowed to stand over him, but must step back at least six feet, the referee to measure the distance. Ten seconds shall be allowed a fallen boxer to regain his feet and it shall be the duty of the referee to count off the aforesaid ten seconds aloud. Should said boxer fail to rise at the expiration of ten seconds his opponent shall be declared the winner.

Should sale boxer fall to rise at the expiration of the monds his opponent shall be declared the winer.

6. No tampering with the gloves shall be permitted and the referee shall examine them on the hands of the contestants before the contest begins to satisfy himself that the padding has not been pushed back from the knuckles. Should a glove burst or come off it shall be replaced to the referee's satisfaction, A contestant shall not be allowed to wear shoes with spikes.

7. The seconds or handlers shall do no coaching while the contest is in progress, nor shall they be permitted to throw water on their principa or apply the seconds be allowed in the ring excepting during the minute's rest between the rounds.

8. A contestant shall not be allowed to fall to avoid punishment. The referee shall caution him for a first offense against this rule and may disqualify such contestant for a second offense.

9. The pivot blow shall be deemed a foul.

The chief points in the rules are that they effectually bar in fighting, and when a man is knocked down afford him an opportunity to rise without having his adversary standing over him. It will be remembered in the late Hall-Pritchard fight Hall, though the better man, came nearly being counted out, because when knocked down by a blow that did him little harm Pritchard stood over him and prevented him from getting up.

up.
Corbett, McCaffrey, Wm. E. Harding of the Police Gazette and Warren Lewis have pronounced the rules perfect, but Sullivan, Billy Madden, Gus Tuttle and P. J. Donahue object to them, as they give the short range fighter little chance.

JACK SKELLY'S HARD LUCK. The course of true love never did run mooth as Lightweight Jack Skelly has found by bitter experience. When George Dixon knocked his visions of a dove-cote for his Brooklyn lassie into smithereens he kept a Brooklyn lassle into smithereens he kept a stout heart, and looked forward to his home benefit with much confidence. It was fixed for last Monday evening at the Clermont Avenue Rink, Brooklyn. George Dixon had offered to spar with his quandom rival. Jack's hopes of financial recuperation were rudely dashed to earth, for his benefit yielded what is known in theatrical parlance as a "frost." As many as 200 people were present, and Jack is out nearly $500 by the affair.

PUGILISTIC POINTERS. Jim Hall says that he will bet $5,000 that neither Peter Jackson, Sullivan nor Corbett can beat him in a limited number of rounds in any fair place.

All the money is up for the fight between Tom Gardner and Bill Smith for the bantam championship of England. The men fight in London this week.

BASE BALL.

A glance at the figures given below for the fourteen games in the Boston-Cleveland series shows that Boston has outplayed the aspiring Spiders at all points. The batting averages are close, being .253 for Cleveland and .252 for Boston. Cleveland is five points ahead in fielding, .933 to .928. Cleveland has make a star at Elizabeth, N. J. The audience was incredulous and seemed to look upon the whole matter as a joke, but Jim sailed in seriously and intelligently, and soon got the audience interested. Strange to say, his part is not funny but very serious and pathetic. Jim made a decided hit. Manager Brady, who plays the part of Gentleman Jim's father, showed himself no slouch, but Prof. John bonaldson, who took Jim Dely's play, is said "to be full of prunes," but then the professor has had no time to rehearse. McAllister's set is, not in it with the prizering when it comes to furnishing first-class histrionic talent.

off. A PLEA FOR BARE HANDS. The proposition to amend the playing rule so as to prohibit the use of gloves except by the catcher and first-baseman will find favor with those who are dissatisfied with a game which does not develop a few broken fingers, says the Chicago News. still the privilege of using gloves has been abused. What a ridiculous sight is presented by an outfielder standing in his position with his left hand protected by a mitten the size of a boxing glove. Bill Craver, the king of all catchers, never wore a mask, protector or glove in his never wore a mask, protector or glove in his life. He played before such things were known. "Doc" Kennedy, an old-timer who covered first base this year for the Buffaloss, has never worn a glove. He scoops low shoots out of the dust and yet his fingers, are as straight as those of any player of his years. He says that he doesn't know how a man can hang on to a ball when his hands are encumbered with stuffed ham cases.

PUGILISTIC BALL PLAYERS. The New York Base Ball Club has developed a decided pugilistic tendency this year. Not long ago Bassett and Ewing had a lively fistic encounter and only a few days ago Doyle and Burke indulged in a rough and tumble drunken brawl which incapacitated both of them for several days. The visages of both players bore ample evidence of their fistic seance. There seems to have been no reason for the difficulty except an exuberant supply of "red eye."

YESTERDAT'S GAMES. Yesterday's Pittsburg-St. Louis game was postponed on account of cold weather. Two games will be played to-day. The Washington-Baltimore contest was postponed on account of the failure of the Orioles to appear. They were caught in a wreck between Boston and New York.

Arrangements have been made to play off the game on Oct. 13, that being an open date for both clubs. The Boston-Philadelphia game was postponed on account of wet grounds. Only three games were played. Brooklyn defeated New York after a desperate struggle, Louisville downed Chicago handily, and the coming champions shut out Cincinnati. The scores follow:

A Pittsburg enthusiast who objected to the proposed Glasscock-Shugart deal, made the following interesting compilation: Last year Shugart had a batting record of 285 per cent, whilst Glasscock's was only 243. In the fielding record of Shugart played seventy-five games, had 174 put outs, 230 assists and thirty-nine errors; 443 total chances with a percentage of .912, being third in the League. Glasscock played ninety-five games, had 188 put outs, 278 assists and fifty errors; 486 total chances, with a percentage of .897.

The largest winning stable lucky owners. The largest winning stable was that of O. O. West, Jr., whose horses took into camp $5,945. Ida Pickwick proved the biggest winning horse, with $3,280 to her credit, while Goodale handily beat all the jockeys, steering home thirty-four winners, thus making his average over a winning mount a day. Of the 409 horses that ran during the meeting, 137 won races, 237 captured money, while 172 failed to capture a single dollar for their owners. The biggest winner of all was the club, Secretary Hopper being authority for the statement that this was the most successful fall meeting ever held at Latonia.

About $,000 persons witnessed some ordinary racing at Churchill Downs yesterday. Favorites won in only two races, the first and fourth, and the bookmakers took most all the money. The track was very heavy in dust and a chilly October wind blewall afternoon. The winners were Lady Jane, Whitenose, Imp. Regent, Hindoogam and Lake Breeze.

THE WHEEL.

"It looks as if cash prizes were bound to ome, and the situation is ticklish for the League of American Wheelmen," says a tinued Mr. Neumann. "It brings about per-Windy City wheel authority. "For some spiration, and I used to be very careless of years the L. A. W. downed the cash prize myself when in an overheated condition. I buggle boo but it seems that it will not stay used to sit in drafts and otherwise foolishly squelched much longer. The prominent riders undoubtedly favor the movement. A city would be practicable. Bicycling has city would be practicable. Bicycling has found such favor with the public that the pastime promises to be a big money-getter. Fast tracks could be built and the circuit so arranged that riders could race when the base ball teams were away on their travels. Such a scheme would reduire an immense amount of defail work and engineering to pull through successfully, but is worth the trouble, for there is money in it."

Lumsden and Johnson will go to Evansville and attempt to break records there Saturday. They will find y running horse to pace both men and then it will be seen how Chicago's crack will compare with he of the eliptical sprocket and the kite track.

FOOT-BALL.

Harvard and Princeton have not met since 1889, though there is a prospect of their com-ing together this year. Both teams have left an open date. Princeton has reserved Nov. 12 for Harvard and Harvard has kept Nov. 12 for Harvard and Harvard has kept Nov. 8 (election day) for Princeton. Both are waiting for the other to say the word. So far no overtures have been made by the management of either club for a game on neutral ground. If it is brought about it will be through the influence of the old graduates, who have been useful heretofore in patching up peace. The Princeton team is not over strong this year. All in all the three big colleges are more evenly matched than ever before and very tight contests will be the rule when they meet.

PEDESTRIANISM.

BURLINGTON, Io., Oct. 6.-Harry Heuston of Omaha, popularly known as "the Man in Red," is walking from Omaha to Chicago and return on a wager of $4,000. The terms of the wager are that Heuston, dressed in a suit of red, should start from Omaha with but 4 cents in his pocket, walk all the way to Chicago and back without financial help, begging his food from door to door and not begging his lood from door to door and not sleep in a bed during the journey, which is to be completed in thirty-seven days. Heuston arrived in Burlington last night and spent the night at the Union Depot. He is accompanied by two bicycle riders to see that he fulfills the stipulations of the contract. He is in good trim and thinks he will win the wager. wager

The President's Wife Believed to Be Be yond Medical Aid.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 6 .- A cloud of despondency has gathered about the Execu. tive Mansion, for the President, his family and his intimate friends now realize that of practically throwing her out of training for a while, and Hoffman does not believe it would pay him to send her against the best past and the physicians have sought weeks past and the physicians have sought. weeks past and the physicians have sought to hold out hope, but the truth has at last been faced, and they feel convinced now that no earthly skill can bring the sufferer to health. The mental and physical strain upon the President during the past two months has lett its mark upon him. Air. Harrison is a most downcast man and his devotion to his family is one of the beautiful features of his life. Since the day he first realized the fact that his wife was critically ill the President has been a constant watcher at her bedside. After he returned from Loon Lake there was an apparent change for the better, but the President was among the first to discover that the improvement was only temporary. In spite of the encouraging reports and the confident expressions of Dr. Gardiner, the devoted husband knew that the end inust come, and that at no distant day. Yesterday at a Cabinet meeting Mr. Harrison, for the first time, spoke of the great affliction which is langing over him. His advisers considerately withdrew, seeing that he was too deeply moved to discuss the affairs of state under such trying circumstances. to health. The mental and physical strain
